Scenes As City Opened Its New Swim Pool

Townpeople Lauded For Efforts As Pool Is Opened

"...a physical realization of a dream." Those words, voiced by Kiwanis Club President Guy Mauro, keynoted the impressive opening ceremonies at the new $89,000 Centennial Park swimming pool Sunday afternoon before a shirt-sleeved crowd of an estimated 3,500 persons.

Saxons End Convention Of Two Days

Fred J. Theiss, whose three-year term as grand president of the National Central Verband continues into 1955, presided at the annual convention at Saxon Hall here Saturday and Sunday, attended by an estimated crowd of over 1,000 people.

One hundred seventeen delegates from 41 cities and seven states were present at the Central Verband sessions held in conjunction with the 50th anniversary celebration of Branch 18, Salem Saxon Women's Lodge.

Daniel Weber of Salem, a trustee of the Central Verband, also has another year to serve. Officials elected from the seven-state area are:

George Martini of Cleveland treasurer; John F. Orben of Youngstown and Henry Schindler of Cleveland, first and second vice presidents, respectively; John C. Sailer of Detroit, counselor; George Dipper of Youngstown, and Donald Hegal of Alliance, trustees; and Herman Hartman of Canton, third vice president.

Besides Mr. Theiss and Mr. Weber, the following men continue in posts to which they had been elected at previous meetings:

In presenting the pool to Mayor Dean B. Crammer, Mauro commented that the pool was "for the benefit of all Salem."

Gail Herron, chairman of the Kiwanis pool committee and president of the Park Commission, also paid tribute to those who donated their services in the engineering and construction of the pool.

Floyd McKee, program chairman, introduced other dignitaries.

Then, a program of water exhibitions in the pool featured several swimming and diving acts of all kinds. This portion of the show was highlighted by a life-saving demonstration by the pool's lifeguards.

Sandy Hansell served as master of ceremonies for the exhibition program.

Hundreds of townspeople then took the opportunity to make a thorough inspection of the pool and its facilities, after which it was thrown open for swimming, much to the glee of the multitude of youngsters who couldn't wait to take advantage of it.

Music was furnished by the Junior High School band under director Richard Howenstine while the flag was raised by the American Legion color guard under the direction of L. R. Barnes.

The invocation was given by Rev. George Keister, while Rev. Father J. Richard Gaffney delivered the benediction.

The pool will open for its first full official day of business today at 12:30 a.m.

Pool Statistics

Pool begun: April, 1953
Completed: September, 1953

There was a $1,093 debt on the pool, but on Saturday the Kiwanis Club assumed the obligation and paid off the debt. When turned over to the city Sunday the pool was debt-free.

Columbiana Driver Gets Sudden Dunking

EAST LIVERPOOL — Robert L. Milburn, 51, of Columbiana spent two dreary hours atop his car Saturday morning after it left Route 7 below Wellsville and plunged into seven feet of water in Yellow Creek.

State Highway Patrolmen said the Columbiana motorist dozed at the wheel and failed to make a right turn. The car knocked over a guard rail and plunged about 25 feet into the creek where it joins the Ohio River.

The car landed wheels down in the stream, but by the time Milburn, patrolmen said, was sufficiently awake to scramble to the top of the auto where he stood with water up to his knees.

After two hours atop the car a passing motorist heard his cries and summoned a two truck. The truck operator swam out and attached a line to the auto.

Milburn, who can't swim, didn't wait for the pull. He scrambled up the two line. Cited by the patrol for driving left of center, Milburn was fined $10 and costs by Squire Heien Huntsman at Toronto Sunday.

The invocation was given by Rev. George Keister, while Rev. Father J. Richard Gaffney delivered the benediction.

Molotov Leaves Talks; Reds Refuse Comment

GENEVA, May 30 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov left the Geneva conference today and flew back home just as East and West squared off for the actual business of halting the conflict in Indochina.

East Pakistan Officials Ousted

State Of Emergency Declared In Country

KARACHI, Pakistan, May 30 (AP)—Pakistan's governor general dismissed all 14 of East Pakistan's Cabinet ministers today, including the popular chief minister, aged Abdul Kasem Fazlul Huq. He declared a state of emergency as bitter differences between the divided sections of this country came to a head.

Pakistan's Prime Minister Mohammed Ali, a political foe of Fazlul Huq, broadcast to the nation an explanation of the drastic move. He said the ousted minister was a "traitor to Pakistan, even to East Pakistan." The prime minister asserted Fazlul Huq had said his ultimate goal was an independent Bengal (East Pakistan). This, Ali said, was a "disloyal utterance."

First reports said the central government also had dissolved East Pakistan's new Provincial Assembly. Mohammed Ali denied this, saying the Assembly was not affected by the order removing the Cabinet.

Karachi acted under the "governor's rule" followed since Britain withdrew from the Indian subcontinent in 1947, whereby the central government can assume the functions of a provincial ministry.

Mohammed Ali said Fazlul Huq had refused to accept advice from the central government and had let "disruptive forces" create confusion, economic chaos, and retard progress in East Pakistan.

Ali said that when Fazlul Huq first conferred with the Central government in April, he had complained of the Communist menace in East Pakistan. But at a conference just concluded here, at which Fazlul Huq was accompanied by his government colleagues, he insisted there were no Communists and no communism in his province. The prime minister added it was surprising how the Communists could disappear within a week.

Gov. Gen. Ghulam Mohammed named Maj. Gen. Iskandar Mirza, secretary of the central government's defense ministry, governor of East Pakistan and directed him to take control in the crisis.

British Plane Drops Flowers On Yank Graves

LONDON, May 30 (AP)—A Royal Air Force plane dipped low over the American cemetery five miles west of Cambridge in bright sunshine this afternoon and dropped 3,811 flowers.

The mission of the plane was Britain's contribution to the American Memorial Day service.

There was a flower for each of the 3,811 American soldiers, airmen, sailors and Marines buried at the cemetery. Blossoms fell among the long rows of headstones, there was a soldier by a firing squad, a bugler sounded taps, and an air force band played British and American national anthems.

A similar ceremony took place at Brookwood, near London, where many Americans are buried.

came on the heels of an agreement in a nine-party conference session yesterday to summon military experts of the two sides to Geneva to draw the actual ceasefire lines in war-torn Viet Nam, and perhaps in Cambodia and Laos as well.

The Russian delegation here refused all comment. Western officials could only speculate that Molotov was going to give Premier Georgi Malenkov and other Kremlin officials a report on the month-old talks, or would join with them in mapping out their next objective in the conference hall.

Swiss police said they were told Molotov would be returning in a few days. Western sources said both British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and U. S. Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith knew in advance of Molotov's trip. Smith was told Molotov would be back here Tuesday morning.

Molotov, Aides Leave

Molotov and a group of aides left Geneva about 4 a.m. in three Soviet DC3s. Aside from a protocol visit to Berne, capital of Switzerland, Friday, this was Molotov's first absence from the conference since the talks opened late in April. Eden has visited London and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault has made trips to Paris and back. American Secretary of State John Foster Dulles left Geneva after the first week and put the U. S. delegation in Smith's charge.

Before going to the airport, Molotov attended a Red Chinese reception where guests included Red Chinese Foreign Minister Chou En-lai, North Korean Foreign Minister Nam Il and Vietnamese Foreign Minister Pham Van Dong. The party, which featured the showing of some Chinese films, lasted past midnight in Russian metropolitan headquarters in the Metropole Hotel.

One of the obvious choices now confronting the Kremlin is whether the Russians should string out the meeting of military experts into a replica of the Korean military talks at Panmunjom where the opposing sides argued more than two years before fixing a cease-fire line. Conversely, they might seek to halt the fighting as quickly as possible with a prompt accord on the armistice lines in Indochina.

Yesterday's decision to convene the military experts was the first solid move the month-old conference had taken toward ending the conflict. To both East and West is marked the end of one phase of the Indochina talks and the opening of another.

The joint communique announcing this agreement left at least two important issues undecided as potential stumbling blocks in the path of the military discussions. One was whether Viet Nam is to be maintained as a single state, and the other was whether the Communist-led Vietnamese rebels will be required to evacuate all of Cambodia and Laos as the pro-French governments of these two states demand.

France, meanwhile, was jolted by the sudden resignation of Marc Jacquet, secretary of state for the Associated States (Indochina) and a leading member of the delegation here.

Besides meaning a change in one of the conference's key personalities so far as France is concerned, this development could again jeopardize the shaky coalition government of Premier Joseph Laniel. Jacquet was a member of the former DeGaulle group whose support is needed to maintain Laniel in office. Jacquet resigned in a dispute involving the purported publication of top-secret military recommendations on bolstering the French position in Indochina.

AFTER HEADON COLLISION. These two automobiles were practically demolished when they collided head-on Sunday morning on the Teegarden Road, south of Salem. Seven youths were hurt, five of them hospitalized here.

Seven Teenagers Hurt As Autos Crash Headon

Teegarden Rd. Scene Of Most Serious District Accident

Memorial Day weekend traffic accidents in the Salem district resulted in injuries to at least nine persons. Eight mishaps were investigated by the highway patrol.

Five teenagers are confined to Salem City Hospital as the result of a two-car mishap on the Teegarden Rd., a mile west of Route 45, at 11 a.m. Sunday.

They are: Ronald E. Bruey, 17, of Youngstown, driving the other auto, "fairly good" with a fractured left foot and lacerated left arm;

Sandra Hushour, 15, of Youngstown, a passenger in Jenkins car, "fairly good," fractured left ankle and lacerated left arm;

Patricia Porter, 16, of Youngstown, a passenger in Jenkins car, "fairly good," possible concussion and facial lacerations;

Frank Anvelmo, 16, of Youngstown, a passenger in the Jenkins car, in good condition, lacerations and abrasions of the face and head.

Also injured were Roger Warren, 19, of 265 Washington St., Lisbon, lacerations of the mouth and lip; and John Hawkins, 16, of 513 Washington St., Lisbon, lacerations and abrasions of the face.

The two boys, passengers in Bruey's auto, were treated at City Hospital and released.

The two autos collided head-on, patrolmen said. The scene of the mishap was a curve with a slight hill crest.

Investigating patrolmen said Bruey, eastbound, came around the curve on the wrong side of the road and smacked head-on into the Jenkins car.

Speed excessive for road conditions and inattention to driving caused the accident, patrolmen declared. Bruey has been cited for reckless driving.

The three Lisbon teenagers had gone to visit John Hawkins' sister, Mrs. Charles Phillips Jr., who lives on the Vincent Rd., near Salem City Reservoir, and finding her not home were returning to Lisbon when the accident occurred.

Ronald Bruey is a junior at David Anderson High School and

Two Persons Killed In Tavern Brawl

STUEBENVILLE, Ohio, May 30 (AP)—A tavern brawl in which a bartender accidentally shot and killed his own wife claimed another victim today as deaf mute Albert Fainer died in Ohio Valley Hospital.

Sheriff Clarence Eberts held seven men from the nearby city mingling community of Stratton for questioning in the case. Prosecutor Bernard T. McCan said he is considering whether to charge them with contributing to manslaughter.

Killed last night was Mrs. Joseph Abdullah, 46, wife of John Abdullah, 46, bartender of the Stratton Tavern. Fainer, a 37-year-old husband at the tavern, was hit by the same bullet that killed the woman.

Sheriff Eberts said Abdullah was grappling with several other men in an attempt to break up a fight. A German-made pistol which Abdullah held in his hand discharged accidentally, with the bullet passing through Fainer's stomach and lodging in Mrs. Abdullah's chest.

The seven men being held were Dorman Byers, 25, Jack Byers, 27, Dean Byers, 20, Dan Robinson, 18, Saul Robinson, 21, Steve Yako, 23, and Elmer Mellott, 32.

Guided Missile Warfare A Reality

WASHINGTON — (NEA)—Guided missile, push-button warfare has arrived.

If all-out war should come tomorrow the U. S. arsenal would include at least five types of operational missiles ready for instant use against the enemy.

Combined, they add tremendous potential fire-power to U. S. forces on land, sea and in the air.

Their existence already is forcing top level Pentagon planners to start making some drastic revisions of the traditional roles and missions of the three services. It could change the whole character of modern warfare in this generation.

During the last four years approximately $3 billion has been spent in stockpiling missiles to achieve the current state of missile-warfare readiness. During the next fiscal year $800 million will be spent on adding missile-power to the three services.

THE BEST ESTIMATE is that 24,000 servicemen are actively engaged, full-time, in some aspect of preparation for possible guided-missile warfare. That figure includes men already trained to fire missiles, those doing the training and the men currently being trained. It does not include additional thousands of servicemen and civilians engaged in continuing missile research and development.

Super-secrecy, as rigid as that for nuclear weapons development has been maintained on every phase of missile development. Tremendous advances in the missile art have undoubtedly been made which have not been revealed. However, this much information has been made public on the subject:

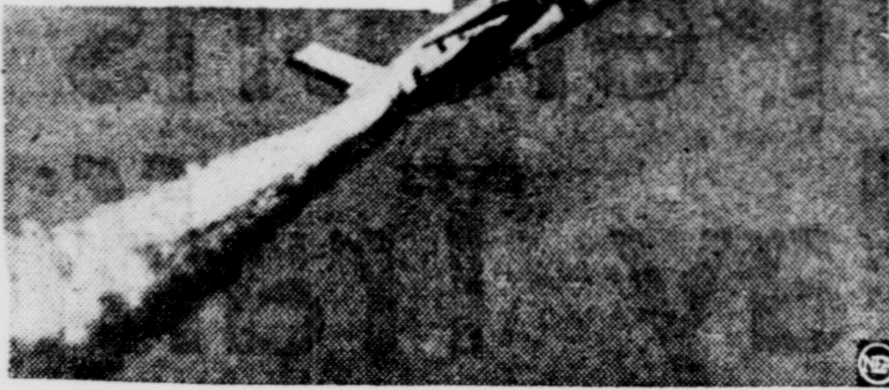

The Army has made the greatest strides in missile warfare with its anti-aircraft Nike and artillery-type Corporal.

Nike's first mission is the protection of American cities. It was made to shoot down enemy bombers approaching at high altitudes. It is electronically-guided, powered by liquid fuel, about 20 feet long and one foot in diameter and travels unerringly to its target faster than the speed of sound.

NIKE UNITS ARE under construction near a half-dozen major U. S. cities. And many more are being planned. Plans also exist for establishing Nike units abroad.

The Corporal guided missile is a gigantic rocket capable of carrying a nuclear warhead farther than the atomic cannon. Trained crews exist to fire them in close cooperation with the movements of ground forces. The Corporal travels several times the speed of sound and is extremely accurate.

The most advanced Air Force missile is the Matador. It looks like a small fighter plane, can strike targets 300 miles away and travels about 600-miles-per-hour.

The first pilotless bomber squadron, composed of 600 highly-trained men, is now stationed at Bitburg Base, Germany, near the Iron Curtain. If war should come the outfit would immediately begin firing its missiles at strategic and tactical targets, probably with atomic warheads, if the target was deemed worth it.

ANOTHER SQUADRON is already formed and ready to alight at some strategic spot, while several more are being trained at Patrick Air Force Base in Florida.

In the same general category of missile is the whole family of guided rockets fired from planes against enemy planes — the so-called air-to-air missiles.

Both Air Force and Navy planes are already prepared to fire these in combat.

The Navy has been more secretive than the other services on the state of its missile development. But what little has been revealed sponse. The article carried at least an implication that the pool plan was a cover for carrying on atomic war preparations, although Eisenhower offered it as a means of getting around old deadlocks and making a start toward cooperation that could lead to effective weapons control.

Other issues involving America's free world leadership have been even more dramatically spotlighted by recent developments, especially the delivery of Communist arms to Guatemala two weeks ago and the efforts to end the Indo-China War in Geneva negotiations or find some way to set up a coalition to fight it successfully.

8 Building Permits Are Issued By City

Eight building permits were issued during the past two weeks by the mayor's office for construction and repairs which will cost homemakers an estimated $22,100.

Largest item among the eight is a home to be erected on Highland Ave. by Robert L. and Katherine M. Davis for an estimated $18,000.

Other permits were issued to: Elwood C. Hammell Jr., finish one room in attic at 1022 Homewood Ave., $500; W. H. Cleland, remodel kitchen at 915 Morris St., $200.

Orville Small, remodel home addition at 1290 E. 10th St., $1,000; Robert and Olive Ogle, build garage at 495 Stewart Ave., $800; Thomas Howett, build addition to home at 1583 N. Ellsworth Ave., $800.

Everett Jackson Sr., build outside pavilion at 469 Euclid St., $200; and Nick Mustric, remodel building at 317 N. Ellsworth, $600.

Kirk Douglas Weds Parisienne Brunette

LAS VEGAS, Nev., May 30 (P)—Actor Kirk Douglas surprised Hollywood last night by appearing before a justice of the peace in Las Vegas and taking an attractive Parisienne brunette as his bride.

The rugged movie hero and Anne Baydens, 31-year-old publicity representative for film productions, were married in a suite of the Hotel Sahara, one of Las Vegas' fancy casinos.

Douglas, 37, met her in Italy last year while he was acting in the movie "Ulysses" and she was doing publicity work for the film. Each has been married once before.

Businessmen's Thoughts Turn To Chances Of Inflation Revival

NEW YORK (P)—In June the thoughts of businessmen are turning to the chances of a revival of the inflation.

The critical months — March, April and May—have gone to businessmen's liking, because the decline slackened instead of picking up momentum as some previously feared it might.

Today, just a few weeks away from the summer siesta, businessmen's talk about a waning recession's being replaced by a new spurt of inflation is based on these possibilities:

1. War, a threat of war, or just more military aid to our allies, might start warm boom psychology among the buying public, they argue. Some think that might mean scare buying, such as sparked inflation early in the Korean conflict.

2. Government stockpiling plans for non-ferrous metals has already firmed prices, as intended. Threat of a steel strike—now being played down—might send manufacturers scurrying to order steel. Stepped-up activity in the metals industries, even if artificially induced, might spread to other parts of the economy.

3. Easy money—a government policy for several months now—and assurance of more strenuous measures if needed to halt deflation, convince many businessmen that inflation might find fertile ground in which to germinate.

The Administration, however, has made clear its stand on that: It wants neither inflation or deflation but balance.

Still, it's no secret that inflation, in moderation, is more attractive to most people than deflation. That often proves true at the polls. And balance is hard to get, and not very exciting.

June starts quietly enough. Compared to last June there are many minus factors. Retail trade is down, partly because of poor weather. Industrial output is off, with durable goods the weakest. Business loans lag, despite easy credit. People are buying less on time. Total wage and salary payments for the nation are a little lower, although higher jobless benefit payments and lower personal and excise taxes help sustain purchasing power.

There are strong factors, too. Building goes booming along. Corporate earnings hold up, even in the face of lower sales. Dividend payments top last year. Business expansion programs reflect long-term confidence.

Inflation talk falls on deaf ears in many quarters, where it is porate earnings hold up, even in the face of lower sales. Dividend payments top last year. Business expansion programs reflect long-term confidence.

That outbreak in 1950 came when recovery from the 1949 inventory recession was already taking on the look of a fresh boom. This time, moreover, the nation's productive machinery for both war or peace is much higher.

About 10 per cent of its industrial capacity is unused now. Since production is down by that much from last year's peak, there's slack to be taken up before new military demands would pinch the capabilities of mills and factories, and send prices kiting.

The immediate question for businessmen, however, is the sales trend that will be set before the Fourth of July, particularly in such seasonal lines as autos.

Ike To Ask Unity Of Free Nations

Will Give Foreign Policy Talk Monday

WASHINGTON, May 30 (P)—President Eisenhower will go to New York tomorrow to deliver a major foreign policy speech in which he is expected to sound a rallying call for the free nations to tighten their unity in the face of Communist efforts to split the coalition.

The White House announced that Eisenhower's address, to be carried nationally on television and radio networks beginning at 8:30 p.m. EST, will be pitched to the general theme of steps taken and projected by the free world to establish peace and freedom universally.

Eisenhower will speak at a dinner in connection with Columbia University's bicentennial celebration.

The speech will afford the President an opportunity to react to Russia's public rebuff to his atom-for-peace plan.

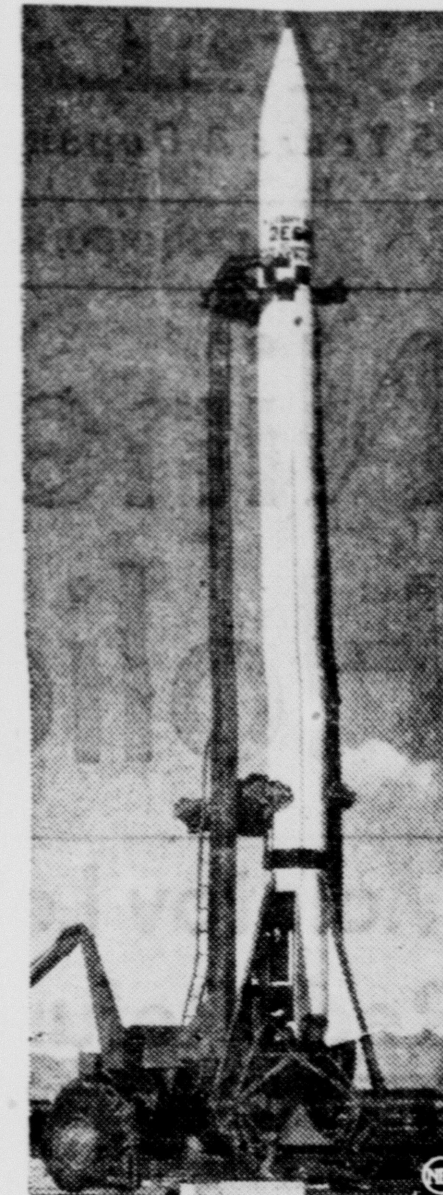

The Communist newspaper Pravda said in an article in Moscow yesterday there is a "growing threat" of atomic war. Pravda ruled out any peaceful uses of the atom unless the United States makes an agreement to ban atomic weapons—even though Russia has long refused Western proposals for such a ban backed up by safeguards against violation.

The Soviet article was the latest in a series of developments which fit into a pattern with two important elements: First, that Russia is trying to pit up the Allies and wreck American leadership of the free world; and second, that there are Allied divisions which greatly worry some leaders both here and abroad.

In the circumstances, any emphasis which Eisenhower may place on the need for free world strength would have more than ordinary meaning.

The Soviet statement on atomic negotiations appeared not only to end hope of progress with Russia in that field but also to constitute a Soviet effort to turn free and friendly nations against the President's idea of an atomic pool which was widely acclaimed when he advanced it to the United Nations last December.

The Pravda statement would therefore seem to require some kind of high level American re-indicates that its missile activity is broad and complex. At the end of the Korean war it was sending missiles in the form of drones with television eyes, from the deck of the aircraft carrier Boxer.

ITS OPERATIONAL MISSILE is called the Regulus and resembles the Air Force's Matador. It can be used against enemy shipping and for shore bombardment. By 1955 two cruisers, the Boston and Canberra, will be altered to fire several types of missiles, including the Regulus. The cost of this job is $30,000,000.

The submarine Tunny is also being equipped to fire missiles, along with three seaplane tenders.

The best estimate of the experts is that within two years there will be at least 10 different types of guided missiles in a state of operational readiness with close to 100,000 men assigned to this new type of warfare.

A Day For Remembering

Memorial Day Interlude

By HAL BOYLE

HOMETOWN, U.S.A. — "People always remember the dead on Memorial Day," said Trellis Peeble, "but they forget the living."

"What do you mean?" asked her husband, Wilbur.

"Well, I was thinking of Elsie Smight. She must be lonely today. It's been nearly ten years since Charlie was killed in Germany."

Elsie and Charlie had been close friends of the Peebles. But after her husband's death, Elsie and her infant son, Junior, had moved to a less expensive apartment on the other side of town, and the Peebles saw less of her with the passing years.

"Why, we haven't seen Elsie in a coon's age," said Wilbur. "She's just drifted out of our lives."

"Let's invite her and Junior over for a dinner on Memorial Day," suggested Trellis Mae. "I hate to think of them being alone."

"But some of the guys from the office and I were planning to get in a round of golf, and —" began Wilbur. But when he saw the look in his wife's eyes, he said, "Okay, honey, you're right."

Early Memorial Day morning he drove over and got Elsie and Junior.

"My Elsie, you're getting prettier every year — and Junior, you're so big now I wouldn't recognize you."

"Yep, everybody says that," replied Junior. "Why do grownups always tell kids they are getting bigger? Aren't they supposed to?"

Later, while Trellis Mae was starting dinner, Wilbur called Elsie aside and said, "Do you want to go out and see Charlie now?"

"Yes," she answered. "But don't tell Junior. I still feel he's too young to go."

While the boy chattered in the kitchen, they slipped out to the car, drove to the florist for some flowers, and went on from there to the cemetery. They stopped by a grave that had a small U.S. flag on it.

"Would you like to stay here a little?" asked Wilbur.

"Yes," said Elsie gratefully.

"Well, I'll just drive around, and come back in an hour."

When he returned for Elsie, she was silent and composed, but her eyes were red.

After dinner, Wilbur helped Elsie and Trellis Mae to do the dishes, and then they sat around and had a good long talk about old times. Practically every sentence began, "Do you remember when Charlie —" And then they'd laugh.

Looking out the window at Elsie's son, who was knocking a tin can around with a stick, Wilbur asked:

"How's Junior coming along?"

Just then Junior tripped and fell, got up, and in a fit of small boy fury banged the stick against a tree until it broke.

"Well, you know he wasn't born until the month after Charlie went overseas," said Elsie, "and he never got to see his father. But he's getting more like him all the time."

"Remember how Charlie used to fly into a rage over trifles? If he broke a shoelace in the morning, you'd think the world was coming to an end."

"But he could always take the big troubles well. One of his buddies told me after the war that the day Charlie got . . . hit . . . he had been in battle for 32 days, and half his company was gone."

"But he never even mentioned he was at the front in his letters. He just said that he was safe . . . and the German countryside was beautiful . . . and the food was getting better . . . and . . . and that he missed me . . . and couldn't wait to come home and see Junior."

When it was time to leave, Wilbur went into the bedroom, rummaged around in a drawer, and came back with an old and worn Boy Scout knife.

"This really belongs to you, Junior," he said. "Your Dad gave it to me the day I won my first class badge."

"Gee, you mean it once was Dad's?" asked Junior, awe-struck. "What kind of a Scout was my Dad?"

"The best," said Wilbur. At the door Trellis Mae kissed Elsie and told her, "We have been out of touch with you too long. We cannot let that go on."

"It's my fault more than it is yours," said Elsie. "But it's been a wonderful day, and I'll remember it for a long time."

Junior was so busy playing with the knife he had to be reminded to say "Thank you."

After Wilbur returned from driving them home, Trellis Mae met him at the door. Wordlessly she kissed him, clung to him for a long moment, and Wilbur knew it was because she was thinking of Elsie, who had no husband to hold.

"You old liar," said Trellis Mae, wiping her eyes. "Charlie never gave you that scout knife. You've told me many times your Father gave it to you as a present the year you finally got a passing mark in arithmetic."

"Did I?" said Wilbur. "That just goes to show how you women always get things mixed up. It was history—not arithmetic. I led the class in arithmetic."

BABY DIES OF INJURIES
PORTSMOUTH, Ohio, May 30 (UP)—Michael White 5-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis White of Otway in Scioto County, died last night of injuries received earlier Saturday during a head-on collision north of Rarden on Ohio 722. He was a passenger in the car driven by his father.

Rescue Team Finds Injured Climber

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, May 30 (UP)—A Brooklyn, N. Y., mountain climber, gravely injured and stranded for 15 days in a tent 11,000 feet up on towering Mt. McKinley—tallest in North America—was reached by a rescue team today, which radioed back:

"He's alive and well."

Two men of a five-man rescue party reached the injured mountain climber, George Argus, at 12:10 p.m. The other three were expected at the tent shortly.

The two were Dr. John McCall, University of Alaska glacier expert, and Frank Milan, from the Air Force aero-medical laboratory at Ladd Field in Fairbanks.

They radioed their brief message to a hovering airplane, which in turn radioed the report to Fairbanks.

The brief message did not give full details, but stressed that "he is well."

Observers said they expected it would take from two to three days to bring Argus down the tortuous mountainside.

A sled was dropped by plane this morning and is available near the lonely tent. Another slide dropped two days ago is buried in snow and unreachable.

The down-mountain trek with Argus will be difficult as he must lie flat all the way. He can not stand pressure on the small of the back and can not sit up.

Sacrificed To Freedom

On a Memorial Day in 1954 without new casualty lists, the decorations on the grassed-over graves and partly-healed sorrows of wars now past seem a little more poignant.

A year ago, new graves were being made daily from a stalemated war in Korea. Americans will be lucky if a year from now their sons are not falling again on some new battlefield. Peace continues to elude the grasp of the peacemakers.

The procession of men who have been sacrificed to freedom moves on endlessly. The quest for national security is never finished.

Besides those who are called on to make the ultimate sacrifice for their country are all the others who are called on in smaller ways to attest their devotion to the preservation of freedom.

They, too, deserve the gratitude of their countrymen, whatever it is that they are called on to do in America's behalf.

Some of them do not wear the uniforms of military service. But insofar as they serve it to the best of their ability, they have a share in the people's gratitude for what they have been willing to do.

Ultimately, there may be a national holiday in honor of all men and women who have served their nation — those who died and risked death in military service and those who may only have risked their reputations in civilian service.

It should be known as National Service Day.

It should be nationwide. It should partake of all the noble emotions stirred by Memorial Day, which is still a regional holiday.

Proxy War

The war of the proxies between President William White of the New York Central Railroad and Robert R. Young, who wants to take over the direction and management of the enterprise, is all over but the counting.

It has not been an easy engagement to follow. In all "wars" there are supposed to be good people vs. bad people. The way it always goes in the script the good people finally are vindicated and everybody lives happily until the peace conference.

But in this proxy contest for control of a major railroad system, most observers have been neutral. Relatively few Americans own stock in the railroad, and among those who do own it there was no overwhelming sentiment one way or the other.

It was, in other words, a financial struggle—a contest between money giants. It simmered down to a showdown between the investment firms of New York City and the resources of two Texas oil millionaires. The turning point in the contest to gain the upper hand may have been passed last February when Clint W. Murchison and Sid W. Richardson of Texas bought 800,000 shares of New York Central stock from Chesapeake & Ohio, the railroad which Young left last January before starting his fight to get control of New York Central. The two Texans are Young's friends. Like him, they would like to break the financial domination of the great New York investment firms.

If President White and his directors are unseated as the result of the proxy war, the investment center of the United States no longer will be on Manhattan Island.

Bottleneck Removal

The reason why so many pressure blocs pooled their resources for a third of a century to block U. S. participation in the St. Lawrence seaway until Canada's decision to finish the project alone made further resistance useless now is coming to light.

They were jealous of Ohio.

The impact on Ohio alone, aside from the impact on other states fronting on the Great Lakes, now is being described as "almost beyond imagination." Gov. Lausche has set up four committees to deal with the far-reaching legal, and economic effects. It is as though a gigantic earthquake had moved the state eastward to the Atlantic coast.

In a sense, that is what will happen when it becomes feasible for large ocean vessels to move between all the ports of the world and Ohio's "seaports" along Lake Erie. Gone forever will be the bottleneck effect of Atlantic ports, with the necessity of paying excessive charges for the privilege of transshipping exports and imports.

Part of Ohio's preparation for a new era of commerce in which transportation charges will be minimized is to bring Ohio River shipping into line with the prospect of a flood of merchandise leaving and entering Ohio's Lake Erie "seaports."

Even the more optimistic appraisals of what the St. Lawrence seaway will mean to Ohio probably will have proved to be over-cautious by the end of the 20th century.

No matter what work you do, step on it and you'll make a better impression.

Inside Labor

'Top Bananas' Pull Strings In Guatemala

This will have little effect throughout our land until it's too late, but here is the background of the conspiracy — with names, dates, and places — aimed at arming Central America so it will turn against us under the leadership of special Soviet agents.

Victor Riesel

This will, of course, make us seem like "Yankee imperialist beasts", for once we land troops we'll have to shoot our way through the banana jungles. Restive millions in Asia will then identify with those millions in Central America — and we will lose some of the few friends we have.

But here it is: Some time early in October the secretary of the Guatemalan Labor party (a section of the Comintern) was summoned to Moscow. This character's name is Jose Manuel Fortuny, a Latin Stalin with his eyes and orders on the Rio Grande. For three months Fortuny was briefed on the strategy of whipping the Central American peoples into a series of revolutionary general strikes.

THE TOVARISCHI time-table called for these walkouts to flare this spring — as they have — so that we would be unable to concentrate on Europe and Asia because of the mosquito attack on our flank. Poison mosquitoes, I might add.

Not too long after Fortuny's arrival in Moscow, three other Guatemalan Communists were summoned for briefing by Soviet labor action specialists in Bucharest and Vienna.

The three agents are Victor Manuel Gutierrez, secretary general of the Guatemalan General Confederation of Workers and Communist whip of the Guatemalan Congress, Gabriel Camay, his spear carrier, and Leonardo Castillo, secretary general, of course, of the National Peasants Federation. They returned to Guatemala in December. And the airlines' record on trips between Europe and Mexico will show that Comrade boss Fortuny flew home, via Mexico, on Jan. 8.

They had been promised arms, espionage agents, special Soviet experts in workers' and peasants' uprisings a la Mao Tse-tung and Moscow gold, which is a phrase we should revive.

Soon they announced that they would hold a national Guatemalan labor conference, at which 50 local labor unions (Communist cells there) were to be represented. Quite casually it was reported that "labor leaders" from Chile, Cuba, Mexico, Colombia and the Central American nations would participate.

THIS GAVE the Latin lovers of the Soviets a chance to gather in Guatemala City, the Western Hemisphere's own little Moscow — and to be briefed. There the orders were given and the money passed.

Meanwhile, the underground cadres were being dispatched from Guatemala to Chile and Honduras — where the general strikes were scheduled. These operatives traveled on Guatemalan passports, although they were Dominican by birth. We're particularly interested in the little comradely band which arrived in the capital city of Tegucigalpa, Honduras, a tropical haven of interest then only to fruit merchants, cross word puzzle addicts — and Communists, of course.

That was early in November — and five months later the Honduran government had to fly troops over the jungle to protect it from Communist — led general strike terror squads.

The band in Tegucigalpa was made up of men carrying passports under the names of Juan Bautista Ducudray, Francis Perez, Gregorio F. Perez, Guillermo Perez and Elisa R. de Perez.

THE WAY HAD been prepared for them by a previous band of labor and peasant organizers who met regularly enough on a nearby plantation. They organized the general revolt, in the guise of a general strike of 40,000 workers, in Honduras — and squeezed the trigger during the last few days of April.

Once the labor and peasant fronts were aflame, the objective became seizure of the Honduran government itself. The squads could do little against machine guns, tanks and gas — most of which has been sent the Latin government by the U. S. during the war. Then, we also had built airfields from which the Panama Canal could be reached in 120 minutes and the Texan oil and chemical fields in three hours.

So the Soviets began moving arms and airplane parts into Guatemala for redistribution to its "strike committees" in the field. Our intelligence agents caught one of those freighters. So what? The Soviet-led bands can still do the trick with machetes. We've lost this round in neighboring jungles, just as we have lost in distant ones.

Who Wants To Be Alone?

By TRUMAN TWILL

In the Gettysburg, Pa., farmhouse that Mamie Eisenhower bought for her military husband to come home to while he was still in uniform, a third-floor room has been set aside for his painting.

This is presumably going to be the big feature of their "dream house," as far as Dwight Eisenhower is concerned. When he retires from public life, as he expects to do one of these days, he will have a hideaway.

He will have a place to be alone. A few years ago every new house of any consequence included a room known as a "den." This presumably was where the caged lion would be kept between performances and from which he would emerge otherwise only at feeding time. The "den" usually turned into a family sitting room.

In more pretentious houses, the "den" was called a library, the difference being that a library usually had more books, fittings designed for libraries and a telephone extension. It, too, became a sitting room eventually.

These facilities were the counterpart for males only of those curious institutions of a few years back for women only — the sewing room and, in tonier establishments, the boudoir. But the idea was the same in both cases.

The sexes need to be separated occasionally. That's what the book said. A man needed to be alone, and so did a woman. It started in the formative years with tree houses, shacks and caves favored by little boys and play houses set aside for the exclusive use of little girls. They were no fun, though, unless the opposite sex showed up sooner or later.

The same idea was carried into college in the form of fraternities, sororities and other secret organizations, where the sexes were divided but not for long. It cropped out in the division of the sexes in secret orders and also in the all-male poker party, one of the oldest American institutions. This has its equivalent in the all-female club meeting.

They even used to divide the sexes and keep them in temporary isolation in saloons and dining rooms. The church, itself, was guilty of the practice of grouping the men in one place and the women in the other, until services were over.

It is good to know that when Dwight Eisenhower finally retires he can pedal up three flights of stairs to his hideaway and be alone. He can have his "den" and all the prerogatives that go with it.

He can have a room he can call his own, where no mere woman will have any right to get fussy with dust cloths and a tidying-up instinct. He can have a place for his desk, his favorite chair and his favorite magazines. He can have one place in his house sacred to the foibles of manhood — a place where he can prop up his feet and sit all day without shaving his face, if he feels so inclined.

There is just one thing wrong. He will enjoy his hideaway for one day. Then he will feel lonesome. He will go to the head of the stairs and yell for Mamie to come on up, he wants to show her something he just found in a book.

She will bring her sewing with her. And when she departs, she will leave it behind. Inside of a week, the hideaway will have turned into a sitting room for Ike and Mamie Eisenhower, or one of them will say and the other will agree that they might as well go downstairs where it's more comfortable to be together.

Hypocrisy Can't Solve Social Problem

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

To most northerners the Supreme Court decision on segregation in the schools was a thrilling step forward; to most southerners it presented a sociological problem of great magnitude. The southerners are required by a Supreme Court decision to change their ideas, their mores, their way of life. The northerners are not required to assume an equal responsibility.

The excitement, the enthusiasm, the self-righteousness of some New York newspapers may have satisfied momentarily their sense of right, but in time they too will have to understand that this question of actual equal political and social rights for Negroes involves such fundamental changes, not only in customs and manners but in ideas and ideals, that only a patient and comradely approach to the problem can be of permanent good.

THE SOUTH is also part of the United States and what happens there is of equal importance to what occurs in the self-centered metropolis on the Hudson.

Whereas in New York and Chicago and other northern cities segregation is practiced deceptively by the device of the whites moving out of neighborhoods into which Negroes or Puerto Ricans move, in the South the whites and the Negroes live and work in constant proximity.

In northern cities, segregation in the lower schools exists, because if all the children of a neighborhood are of one kind, the school in that neighborhood will be of one kind. The Supreme Court does nothing about that and cannot.

My point is that hypocrisy is not a solution to a social problem with which the best minds in the South have been grappling for decades and making astonishing progress. The solution of the Negro problem in the United States will have to be in the South because that is where it has been placed by geography and population. It will have to be solved by white and Negro southerners working in harmony.

THERE CAN be no question but that the great progress of the Soviet universal state in Asia has been due to the use that has been made, as a weapon of war, of the "color" problem in the United States. "White chauvinism," as they call it, is a powerful weapon among races that are not "white." Most of the human race is not "white." Most of those whom the United States seeks as allies are not "white."

Were Hannibal's legions, which populated a part of Europe by assimilation biologic processes, white? What effect did the movement of Mongols, Turks, Alans, Magyars, Uighurs, etc., etc., out of the areas that run from, let us say, Lake Baikal to the Caspian, have on the whole population of Europe?

The pigmented races study their own histories and know what their pasts have been and resent the assumption that a few hundred years of Anglo-Saxon supremacy should be accepted as the whole of human history.

The Communists have used this to our disadvantage in every country in Asia and the blood of our sons has been spilled and will continue to be spilled because of it — southern sons as well as northern sons — blacks as well as whites.

FROM A NATIONAL standpoint, this is the most serious problem that faces us today because we have lost, since 1945, practically every diplomatic and military battle we have fought because of it.

But to assume that a southerner understands this problem less than a northerner is arrogant nonsense.

White and black southerners have fought in the Asiatic wars and they know what that "white chauvinism," a Communist-coined slogan, has cost us. They want to preserve the dignity and prospects of the United States as much as the northerners do.

They probably are more sensitive to the necessity of doing it right than are northerners who wrong.

Therefore, it is assumed that the Supreme Court having spoken, the Southern States will eventually accept a responsibility placed only on them. They ought to be given every kind of cooperation by the rest of the country.

Political Independence

By RAYMOND MOLEY

With a persistence which cannot be discounted, reliable political reporters in Washington are saying that the White House and the Republican National Committee will insist upon what amounts to a test of loyalty to the Eisenhower program for candidates for the House and the Senate this fall. The penalty for a failure to meet this test is variously described, from denial of campaign funds to a denial of White House support.

There will be no individual endorsements or denunciations by the President, but the inference may well be made clear that this or that heretic is operating on his own so far as the President is concerned.

One report which I have not seen officially announced is that a slogan for 1954 will be: "Ike is a Republican—are you?"

IT IS BEING said also that the so-called "Citizens for Eisenhower" will be very active, with money and other forms of support for only those Republicans who have supported the President's program.

This sort of thing may, of course, be merely a means of getting enacted in Congress the parts of the President's program that are still pending. In that respect it resembles the diplomatic bluffing that may be going on in Geneva on all sides.

Any real requirement of strict orthodoxy is always risky business. A national political party is a pretty loosely constructed affair.

There may be a Democratic Byrd and a Democratic Humphrey or Lehman. There may be a Democratic Frank Lausche and a Democratic Mennen Williams. The contrasts suggest political philosophies worlds apart. They cannot be made to respond to a common command.

A pledge of loyalty to the Eisenhower program would require that certain tests be specifically defined. In the first place, what is the program?

include among other things the new revisions of the Revenue Act, the housing program, the highway grant to the states, the St. Lawrence Seaway, the flexible price supports for the farmers, the liberalized tariff proposal, foreign aid, a wire tap law, and votes for 18-year-olds.

Some of these have already been rejected. Others have been enacted. Most are still in the works. The votes, so far as there have been votes, show pretty widespread bolting on the part of Republicans and Democrats alike.

That is as it always has been, especially in recent years.

The lines of ideology are deeper than the lines of party.

Just what proportion of the President's wishes must have been voted for in order to qualify for the White House blessing? The congressman or senator is sometimes confused, and rightly so.

For example, the President has helped to set up the new Hoover Commission. Presumably it is a part of the program which he considers necessary but he also has presented to Congress the gigantic Upper Colorado storage and irrigation project.

THE HOOVER task force dealing with reclamation is in general opposed to this proposal. Is approval of the project a requirement for orthodoxy? There are other similar examples of dilemmas for candidates.

The real fact is that candidates will pretty much be on their own. If they feel that the prestige of the President will help, they will tell the voters about the Eisenhower measures they have supported. If they feel otherwise, they will discuss other things.

Each candidate in his own way offers such appeals to the voters as he thinks will get him votes. What will be offered will depend upon many factors—sectional, occupational, or ideological. Orthodoxy is not an American political habit.

A bull moose can waltz as much as 1,800 pounds.

Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

The Talent Scout's Rating

A TV agent's report to a video vice-president on Washington talent as revealed on the "All's Video on the Potomac" show:

Secretary Stevens: Clean cut, good personality, nice wardrobe; will travel. Does monologues. Gives top rendition of Tennyson's "My good blade carves the casques of men; my stout lance thrusteth sure; my strength is as the strength of ten, because my heart is pure." Formerly with team of Stevens and Adams. Previously seen in "Would You Repeat That Question?" and "I Resent Your Statement."

Sen. McCarthy (Seasoned trouper) wide road experience; will go anywhere; fresh from magic specialty number "Sawing a Photo in Half"; has hard-hitting act featuring team of juvenile quiz kids. Previous acts: "Point of No Return," "Point Yes or No" and "Point of Order."

Ray Jenkins: Sensational new talent from Tennessee Drama School; excels as a "heavy" in old-fashioned slambang thrillers; a killer-diller in any show needing fast action, big dramatic moments, suspense etc. Is type that can wrestle lions, bridge rapids under fire, hunt buffalo, explore jungles. Perfect in Tombstone, Deadwood or Abilene frontier-day shows as sheriff or posse leader; would have been tops in "High Noon." Plays bull fiddle and can throw voice.

Roy Cohn: "Youth Wants To Know" type; was child wonder, Park Row, N.Y., circuit; does fast patter; Overanxious and tends to press; blows stack but has pep and color. Was seen in "This Means War," "Shine On, Moon-mouth Moon" and "This Car Goes No Further." Does fire dance.

Joseph Welch: If you want man for folksy roles, here he is; can double in Pickwickian and Old Homestead parts. Better than Bill Bacon in "Lightnin'." Would be a natural in "Way Down East." Doesn't like to tour. No late shows.

John Adams: Western background; brief experience with Washington Stock Players and the Stevens Straw Hat Theater Group; deadpan type, ambitious and determined. Will travel, and may have to.

Sen. Symington: Winning personality; good dresser; long experience Potomac Players but has been more recently with Missouri Dramatic Guild. Willing to go anywhere, but perfers White House.

Sen. McClelland: Arkansas performer; always trying; can stop show; if he can't stop it he can always delay it.

Sen. Jackson: Young; Photogenic; Loves TV and will do anything short of tap dance, work on aerial trapeze or imitate Four Hawaiians.

Sen. Dirksen: Imitates bird calls; does soft shoe; effective in costume parts and "Fireman, save my child" bits.

Sen. Mundt: Good master of ceremonies; does specialty as infinitive-splitter; doubles in brass.

Assistant Counsel Pruett: Testing! Testing!

The Danbury hatters strike has ended after 10 months. . . That was one fight we always thought could be settled at the drop of a hat.

Knox Local School Graduates 56 At Commencement Friday

Fifty-six eighth grade students were graduated from Knox Local School Friday evening.

The program was as follows: Processional, Mrs. Thomas Malone; invocation, Rev. Raymond Hearn; piano solo, Carolyn Klopstein; salutatory, Teresa Pandin; valedictory, Ruth Ann Stump; vocal selection, Judy Hales; accompanist, Sarah McGarragh; class poem, Robert Sponseller; address, Rev. James V. Ingram of the Bethel Evangelical Reformed Church; piano solo, Patricia Denny; monologue, Tom Gable.

The top third of the class was presented with state scholarship certificates awarded by the State Department of Education for outstanding scores in the "Every Pupils" test. Certificates were awarded by Superintendent John Pickens. Out of 53,000 students taking the test, Robert Sponseller was one of 540 placing in the 99th percentile.

H. E. Zepernick, past district commander American Legion of Ohio, presented merit awards for the George Worth Post 574 American Legion, to the outstanding boy and girl, and five scholarship medals. They were awarded as follows:

Outstanding boy, William Davis; outstanding girl, Ruth Ann Stump; scholarship medals, Ruth Ann Stump, first; Teresa Pandin, second; Tom Gable, third; Carolyn Klopstein, fourth; and Robert Sponseller, fifth.

Certificates were presented to fourteen class members.

A $25 war bond is awarded annually by the Knox Local Parent Teacher Association for outstanding service to the school and class. The winner is selected by the members of the graduating class by ballot. The award was presented this year to Teresa Pandin by Rev. Raymond Hearn, retiring president of the PTA. Presentation of the class key was made by William Ballis, and acceptance for the seventh grade, was by Neva Kitzmiller.

Presentation of diplomas was made by Dale Schoenl, vice president, Knox Local Board of Education. Benediction was pronounced by Rev. D. K. McGarragh; and the recessional was played by Mrs. Thomas Malone, Karen Sue Clark and Thea Jane Kerr, were ushers.

Ohio Traffic, Fires Kill 14 Persons

By The Associated Press
Two Pike County atomic plant workers returning to their Cleveland homes for the Memorial Day holidays were killed Saturday after their car crashed into a tree near Wooster. The holiday traffic toll for the state now stands at 11.

Senate To Vote On New Tax Bill

Democrats To Renew Exemption Battle

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)—Proposals for a major income tax cut and for lower levies on dividends came up for a vote in the Senate Finance Committee this week as it reaches the showdown stage on a general tax revision bill.

The committee resumes its closed-door work on the measure Tuesday. Chairman Millikin (R-Colo.) expects to finish the job by Friday. The group has been working on the bill almost two months, but major decisions have been left to the last.

In advance of the voting, Republican leaders expressed confidence the measure will be approved in substantially the form it was asked by President Eisenhower and voted by the House.

But Democratic members prepared to renew in the Senate the battle they lost in the House—to eliminate some sections they say favor the rich and to increase the tax exemption for dependents, which would cut taxes sharply for those with small incomes and large families.

The increased exemption originally was pushed as a means of increasing buying power to offset fears of a recession early this year.

There have been some reports the sponsors were cooling off toward the plan, because of current business conditions and because of the international situation which could create a need for more revenues for defense.

But Sen. George (D-Ga.) and Sen. Frear (D-Dei.), who with Sen. Kerr (D-Okla.) are sponsoring the proposal, said during the weekend they expect the amendment to be offered in committee, and then to be fought out on the floor.

Republican leaders expect to beat down this effort with votes to spare, at least in the committee.

However, they expect a serious fight over a key provision in the bill, which would give substantial tax relief to stockholders on their dividend income. The vote on this may be close in committee.

The income tax reduction would amount to 4½ billions for this year, through a $200 increase to $800 in personal exemptions.

Next year and thereafter exemptions would be boosted to $1,000 for a $7,800,000,000 annual cut.

But the administration is fighting the proposal hard, chiefly because of the big revenue loss with the budget already unbalanced.

One Republican senator who declined use of his name said he thought any chances for a $200 or $400 exemption increase were dead. But he said a $100 boost, which would mean a $2,400,000,000 annual tax cut, had some chance on the floor, particularly since this is an election year.

One Republican senator, Williams (Del.), has said he will vote to eliminate the dividend tax relief section because of the cost. The revenue loss would be 240 million in the first year, $14 million annually at full effect.

The revision bill in all contains various benefits for individuals and corporations estimated to amount to a $1,400,000,000 tax reduction in the first year of operation of the bill.

House Democrats tried to increase exemptions $100 and knock out the dividend income relief. They lost by a close vote.

Two minor auto mishaps occurred in the city Saturday afternoon, police reported today.

Cars driven by Robert Lee Kibler, 28, of RD 1, Alliance, and Harvey James Hendricks, 70, of RD 2, Salem, figured in an accident in the Century Market parking lot, off E. State St., at 2:43 p.m.

Police said Kibler was parked in the driveway waiting to pull onto E. State St. and the Hendricks auto backed into his left rear fender.

An unidentified car clipped the right front bumper of an auto driven by Mary Bebout Bostrom, 58, of 1183 N. Ellsworth Ave. at 6:25 p.m. as she started a left turn into her driveway, police said.

Leetonia Band Mothers Club May Be Organized Tuesday

LEETONIA — Karl Meinhardt, director of the Leetonia High School Band, has requested all mothers of band members to attend a meeting at the high school Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Mr. Meinhardt will explain the proposed summer program for the band, but the primary purpose of the meeting will be to discuss with the mothers the possibility of forming a "Band Mothers Club." The mothers organization could give assistance in attaining certain objectives for the High School Band.

Mothers of all band members, both grade school and high school, are urged to attend.

At the meeting of the Catholic Youth Group held in K. of C. hall recently officers were elected for the year as follows: President, Billy Gabriel; secretary-treasurer, Jim Sevenich. The group planned for a wiener roast and swimming party at Firestone Park June 16.

D. Wallace Rebekah Lodge will hold a coverdish dinner Tuesday evening at 6 instead of the monthly DAY PARTY. The lodge meeting will be at 7:30.

WEDNESDAY will be the last day of classes for the school year. Grade cards will be given out Friday at 1:30 p.m.

Children will not be transported to school at this time, but may go to the school and get their reports. Report cards not given out to children will be mailed immediately.

Paris Orders French Command To Defend All Red River Delta

HANOI, Indochina, May 30 (AP)—The French high command announced today "orders have been received from Paris" to defend all the vital Red River Delta. A reorganization of the vast defense network is under way.

A high command spokesman said the French would have all the necessary means to defend the delta—key to military victory in Indochina—in the face of any "human sea" attack that might be launched by the Communist-led Vietnamese.

The announcement was made as land and naval reinforcements poured into or were enroute to Indochina from France.

The high command spokesman said the French were bolstering their entire defense system in the face of the possibility that the Vietnamese would launch their big assault upon the delta by mid-June.

The French figure that if the Vietnamese, with four divisions coming from the smashed French Union fortress of Dien Bien Phu and with the 100,000 fighters already inside the delta, do not attack within the next two or three weeks, then the probabilities are that there will be no big attack before October. French spokesmen contend that unless the Vietnamese attacks quickly it will find it nearly impossible to mount an all out assault in July or August because of heavy monsoon rains.

"All of the delta, including the cities of Hanoi and Haiphong, will be defended just the same as it was after the French reverse at Cao Bang along the border with China in 1950 and our troops were pushed back and formed the present delta perimeter," the French spokesman said.

"There has been no shortening of French Union defense lines within the delta. There will be none. The whole delta will be defended."

Since the fall of Dien Bien Phu May 7 and the shifting of Vietnamese divisions eastward, the French have been busy pouring in reinforcements for the defense of the delta, rich in rice, minerals and manpower.

Already the equivalent of two light divisions have arrived or will shortly arrive to reinforce the 80 battalions of French Union troops now inside the delta.

The possibility of evacuating overcrowded Hanoi in the event of a massive Vietnamese assault has not even been considered, the spokesman said.

$100,000 Fire Guts Store In East Liverpool

EAST LIVERPOOL — An estimated $100,000 blaze gutted the Handy Radio Sales and Service on W. 6th St., opposite City Hall here, Sunday morning.

The blaze, which started in a repair shop on the main floor of the structure, spread throughout the building before firemen could bring it under control.

City firemen received the alarm at 4:15 a.m. and had the fire under control at 5:45 a.m.

Most of the damage resulted from the total loss of new and used appliances in the store. Paul McHenry of Chester, W. Va., who with Howard Diddle of East Liverpool operates the company, estimated the loss on appliances at $80,000 and damage to the building at $20,000.

No one was injured in the blaze. However, an occupant of a second floor apartment, Kinsey Blake, who is employed by the company as a television repairman, dropped about 10 feet from a rear window into Drury Lane, which runs in back of the structure, to escape the blaze.

East Liverpool Assistant Fire Chief Clem Dawson said the fire may have started from faulty test equipment in the repair shop or from a faulty appliance.

At the height of the blaze, the floor of a storage room on the second story collapsed and showered two dozen used washers that had been stored there onto the main floor.

Most of the important insect pests in the United States came from other parts of the world.

Services will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Stark Memorial in charge of Rev. Carl Asmus of East Palestine. Burial will be in Grandview Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Memorial Tuesday evening.

Hays Defends Ohio State U. At House Committee Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sitting in his office, Rep. Wayne L. Hays (D-Ohio) was having trouble getting a point across to an interviewer. Telephone calls kept interrupting. Most of the calls were from persons who wanted to ask him about his arguments with a witness testifying this week on tax-exempt foundations.

"This thing has been hard on my nerves," sighed Hays, a blond, youthful-looking man of 43. "But I'm sure I'm doing the right thing."

He was referring to his differences with the chairman of a special House committee investigating tax-exempt foundations and a witness who testified before the committee this week. Hays is ranking Democrat on the committee.

At sessions this week he questioned the motives of the chairman, Rep. B. Carroll Reece of Tennessee, former Republican national chairman, and clashed with Aaron Sargent, San Francisco lawyer, when Sargent was in the witness chair.

Hays called Sargent "an obscure character assassin" trying to taint certain educational foundations with the leftist label.

At one point in the boisterous proceedings, Hays walked out. As he was leaving, a spectator called out "Goodby, Mr. Malenkov," and Hays promptly threatened to punch him in the nose.

"I'm sorry I did that," commented Hays. "I shouldn't have gotten so angry. Several people in my district, the East Liverpool-Stuebenville area, have called me to say I should have punched him."

A former teacher of history and public speaking but now a farmer at Flushing, Ohio, Hays was graduated from Ohio State University in 1933.

Soon after Sargent took the stand, Hays said he understood Sargent planned to attack him by derogatory references to OSU. He told Sargent:

"I was told on good authority that Ohio State University would be cracked at every opportunity in this hearing. I'm not going to let anyone come in here and smear it."

Chairman Reece, however, insisted there was no intention to "slur" OSU.

On a few occasions, Sargent did mention the school. At one point, he named OSU Prof. H. Gordon Hullfish as one of the sponsors of a pamphlet giving a "one-sided presentation of the attack on the schools."

That was all he said about Hullfish. Some committee members said Hullfish may be invited to testify later.

Hays broke in to say that Sargent's "vague reference" dragged in Ohio State in a "nasty sort of way."

He called Sargent a "name dropper" and pointed out that one of OSU's trustees is Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio).

Following the business session and program Beta Psi members joined with Xi Gamma Chapter members for a "white elephant" benefit and lunch. Mrs. Robert Lieder served as auctioneer.

Mrs. Rudy Linder and Mrs. Gerold Smith were luncheon hostesses for Beta Psi and Mrs. LeRoy Greene and Mrs. Hilles Linton for Xi Gamma Beta.

This meeting concluded formal meetings for Beta Psi until fall with the exception of a picnic sometime this summer.

St. Paul Guild Committee Outlines Future Events

The executive committee of St. Paul Guild was in charge of the Friday evening meeting in the school house. Francis McNicol presided when plans for future activities were outlined.

With Mr. McNicol, the other officers are Miss Pauline Alessi, Miss Mary Theresa Bohr and William Santarelli. The committee of officers served refreshments at the loss of the evening. The next session will be Friday, June 25.

Lisbon Woman Feted At Birthday Party

Mrs. Marion Mihai of Lisbon was honored Thursday evening at a birthday party arranged by her sister, Mrs. George Bodirnea Sr., at her home on E. Lincoln Way.

Following the dinner, a decorated birthday cake was served, and the honoree opened her gifts from the guests. Mr. and Mrs. George Bodirnea Jr. and son, Mr. and Mrs. Earl R. Miller and family, Mr. and Mrs. Elio Volio and Miss Maryann Mihai

Guilford Grange Has Memorial Service

Master William Herron presided at the May 22 meeting of Guilford Grange, when Mrs. Charles Cunningham reported on the success of various dinners served at the grange recently.

A memorial service in memory of grange members who have died during the past year was observed. Mrs. Charles Snyder read "The 23rd Psalm" and Mrs. Robert Temple's reading was "Crossing the Bar." In tribute, Mrs. Donald Mayer laid a wreath of flowers on the altar.

Mrs. Lena Gamble, chaplain, led the group in prayer and the Memorial service was concluded with the song, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

Mrs. George Ford gave a reading, "Down on the Farm" in opening the lecture hour in which William Heasley of the Salem First National Bank talked on "Consumer Loans." This is in keeping with the Grange plan to learn of various businesses and occupations from lecture hour speakers.

At the June 5 meeting the Juvenile grange will hold graduation exercises.

Guilford Grangers observed Rural Life Sunday, May 23. A basket dinner was enjoyed at noon, and Rev. Paul Neil of Pittsburgh, pastor of the Hanoverton Christian Church, was the speaker.

Rev. Neil led the group in a program which included scripture reading. Samuel Miller was leader with Misses Carol Ritchey and Yvonne Cunningham representing older grange youth and Donald Mayer, Lyn Clewell and Patty Gamble, the younger group. Songs were sung and the program concluded with "America the Beautiful."

Junior Garden Club Plans Show Entries

Arrangements for flower show entries were discussed at the meeting of the Fourth Street Junior Garden Club Wednesday afternoon in the school.

Mrs. William Davis, leader for the session, explained the classifications for the students' exhibition: Class 1, "To Illustrate a Country," (accessories may be used) and class 2, "In a Sugar Bowl."

Members were instructed to take their scrap books and posters for the show to Mrs. Luke's room Tuesday morning, June 8, and to have their flower show entries in the Masonic Temple before 10 a.m. Thursday, June 16.

The club will resume meetings after school opens in September.

Area Knights Templar Hold Dinner Program

Salem and Alliance Commanderies of Knights Templar joined in their annual Ascension Day dinner program Thursday night in the Salem Masonic Temple. Among the 102 members and guests were people from East Palestine, Lisbon, Columbiana and Leetonia, besides Alliance and Salem.

Rev. C. Clare Davis, pastor of the First Methodist Church, used the Ascension Day theme for his sermon and Rev. A. R. Brown of Columbiana assisted in the service. Myron Kelly, chaplain, read the scripture. The three men are members of the Salem unit.

Wayne Brown and Stewart Rickard, commanders of Salem and Alliance Knights Templar, spoke briefly. Mrs. Joan Johnson and Merle Leslie of Alliance sang, "Whispering Hope," and Mrs. Esther Reardon and Fred Mehl sang, "My God and I." All four joined in singing, "The Old Rugged Cross."

Howard Myers of Alliance, entertained by showing colored pictures of the 1954 Rose parade in California and other pictures of activities of the Alliance Commandery.

Runners of black and white, with arrangements of peonies and bridal wreath were used in decorating the tables where the guests were seated. The next mtg of Salem Commandery will be Tuesday, June 8, when the Knights and Auxiliary will have a coverdish supper.

Mrs. Hartley Host To Hickory Homemakers

Games were enjoyed at the Thursday night meeting of the Hickory Homemakers Club in the home of Mrs. Robert Hartley on the Green-Beaver Rd. Assisting the hostess in entertaining and serving lunch was her mother, Mrs. Ray Beck.

Prizes in the games, which followed the business session, went to Mrs. Roy Hively, Mrs. Dan Miller and Mrs. Walter Hively. The guest award went to Mrs. Lowell Hippley. Other guests were Mrs. Clifford Beck and Mrs. Mahlon Hippley.

The next party will take place in the home of Mrs. Herman Votaw, Beloit Rd. Thursday, June 24.

Couple Are Wed

Sadine Pikey and Hartsel Douglas, both of Salem, were united in marriage by Justice of the Peace John E. Dreher at his office here Saturday morning.

Memorial Fund Discussed By Nurses Group

The "Betty Tullis Memorial Fund Loan" for student nurses in the Salem City Hospital School of Nursing, the project of members of the Hospital Nurses' Alumnae, was discussed at the Thursday meeting.

All Alumnae members, headed by the president, Mrs. Mary Biller, are cooperating in the project, honoring the memory of Betty Tullis, a nurse who died Nov. 17, 1952. The fund will assist a student nurse in training.

It was decided that the senior student nurses will be guests of the Alumnae at the annual picnic Thursday, June 24, at 6:30 p.m. in the closed pavilion at Centennial Park.

Thursday, July 22, at 7 p.m. is the time set for the smorgasbord party at Stow when members of the Alumnae will entertain the graduating class of the hospital for this year.

At the close of the meeting lunch was served by Mrs. Richard Gottschling and Miss Sally Taylor.

Miss Vera Jarrell To Wed W. J. Weber

Custom of open church will be observed for the wedding of Miss Vera Mae Jarrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Jarrell of Charleston, W. Va., and William James Weber, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Weber of S. Union Ave., scheduled for Saturday at 2:30 p.m.

The E.K. Perrow Presbyterian Church in Charleston will be the scene of the nuptials and Rev. David T. Mair, assistant pastor of the Salem Presbyterian Church, will assist Rev. Otis L. Fisher, the Perrow church pastor in the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Jarrell will entertain relatives and friends at the reception in their home on Ridgeway Drive in Charleston. Mr. and Mrs. Weber will be hosts at the rehearsal dinner Friday in Charleston.

After their honeymoon trip the couple will make their home in Princeton, N. J., where Mr. Weber is a ministerial student in Princeton Seminary.

I Speak for Democracy

By ELIZABETH ELLEN EVANS

I am an American.

Listen to my words, Fascist, Communist.
Listen well, for my country is a strong country,
and my message is a strong message.
I am an American, and I speak for democracy.
My ancestors have left their blood on the green
at Lexington and the snow at Valley Forge
... on the walls of Fort Sumter and the fields
at Gettysburg.
... on the waters of the River Marne and in the shadows of the Argonne Forest
... on the beachheads of Salerno and Normandy and the sands of Okinawa
... on the bare, bleak hills called Pork Chop and Old Baldy and Heartbreak Ridge.

A million and more of my countrymen have died for freedom.

My country is their eternal monument.

They live on in the laughter of a small boy as he watches a circus clown's antics
... and in the sweet, delicious coldness of the first bite of peppermint ice cream on the Fourth of July
... in the little tenseness of a baseball crowd
as the umpire calls "Batter up!"
... and in the high school band's rendition of "Stars and Stripes Forever" in the Memorial Day parade
... in the clear, sharp ring of a school bell on a fall morning
... and in the triumph of a six-year-old as he reads aloud for the first time.

They live on in the eyes of an Ohio farmer surveying his acres of corn and potatoes and pasture

... and in the brilliant gold of hundreds of acres of wheat stretching across the flat miles of Kansas
... in the milling of cattle in the stockyards of Chicago
... the precision of an assembly line in an automobile factory in Detroit
... and the perpetual red glow of the nocturnal skylines of Pittsburgh and Birmingham and Gary.

They live on in the voice of a young Jewish boy saying the sacred words from the Torah: "Hear O Israel: the Lord our God, the Lord is One."

Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul and with all thy might.

... and in the voice of a Catholic girl praying:
"Hail, Mary, full of grace, the Lord is with thee . . ."

... and in the voice of a Protestant boy singing: "A mighty Fortress is our God, A Bulwark never failing . . ."

An American named Carl Sandburg wrote these words:

"I know a Jew fisherier down on Maxwell Street with a voice like a north wind blowing over corn stubble in January.

He dangles herring before prospective customers evincing a joy identical with that of Pavlova dancing.

His face is that of a man terribly glad to be selling fish, terribly glad that God made fish, and customers to whom he may call his wares from a pushcart."

There is a voice in the soul of every human being that cries out to be free. America has answered that voice.

America has offered freedom and opportunity such as no land before her has ever known, to a Jew fisherier down on Maxwell Street with the face of a man terribly glad to be selling fish.
She has given him the right to own his pushcart,
to sell his herring on Maxwell Street,

... she has given him an education for his children, and a tremendous faith in the nation that has made these things his.

Multiply that fisherier by 160,000,000—160,000,- 000 mechanics and farmers and housewives and coal miner and truck drivers and chemists and lawyers and plumbers and priests—all glad, terribly glad to be what they are, terribly glad to be free to work and eat and sleep and speak and love and pray and live as they desire, as they believe!

And those 160,000,000 Americans—those 160,- 000,000 free Americans—have more roast beef
and mashed potatoes,

the yield of American labor and land;

... more automobiles and telephones,

... more safety razors and bathtubs,

... more Orlon sweaters and aureomycin,
the fruits of American initiative and enterprise;

... more public schools and life insurance policies,

the symbols of American security and faith in the future;

... more laughter and song—
than any other people on earth!

This is my answer, Fascist, Communist!
Show me a country greater than our country,
show me a people more energetic, creative,
progressive—

bigger-hearted and happier than our people,
not until then will I consider your way of life.
For I am an American, and I speak for democracy.

Salem, Columbus Riders Tie 6 - All In Season's Polo Opener

Play Again At 3 This Afternoon

Jim Pidgeon Scores Late Goal To Tie

Inaugurating the local polo season, the Salem riders and Columbus Harbor Hills tied 6-all in a tight, well-played game at the Ellsworth Road Field Sunday afternoon before a large crowd of fans.

Jim Pidgeon, Salem's No. 2 rider, came through with a goal late in the sixth chucker to knot the count. Hills was leading 6-5 at that point.

Starting well, the locals assumed a 3-2 lead in the first period and were out in front 5-3 at the half. However, midway in the fourth chucker, Columbus came back to tie the score at 5-all and then, in the fifth, took a 6-5 lead.

When the contest ended, both teams decided not to go into extra periods. One of the Salem horses was cut and bleeding badly and none of the other horses was in good enough shape to come back for an extra session to decide the play.

The game will go into the league records as a tie. Blessed with perfect weather, the season's opening polo festivities were opened by Mayor Dean B. Cranmer who threw out the first ball. The two teams will play again at 3 p.m. this afternoon.

Pidgeon paced the scoring for Salem with three goals, while Wilford Smith tallied twice and Roy Bates once. In addition, Bates turned in his usual good defensive game.

Tony Sheen was the other starter, while newcomers Harry Frick and Lloyd Brunner each saw considerable action. Both performed creditably.

Frank Harris paced Columbus with three goals, while one tally each was recorded by Otis Harris, Bud Myers and Walt Schapter.

The six-team Penn-Ohio league is composed of Darlington, two Cleveland Squads, Youngstown-Poland, Salem and Columbus.

The lineups:

Salem—6
1—Wilford Smith
2—Jim Pidgeon
3—Tony Sheen
4—Roy Bates
Substitutes—Lloyd Brunner, Harry Frick.

Columbus—6

1—Otis Harris
2—Bud Myers
3—Frank Harris
4—Walt Schapter
Substitute—Bob Baker.

Little League Season To Start Here Tuesday

The official opening of the American Legion Little League baseball season will take place Tuesday evening at 6 p.m. at Centennial Park. Featured speakers for the evening will be Mayor Dean B. Cranmer and Probate Judge Louis Tobin of Lisbon.

Awards to last year's batting and fielding champions will be made, after which a series of three-inning preview games will be played.

A total of 22 teams in all classifications is lined up for action this year, the largest field in local Little League history.

Former Giant Star To Speak At Junior High Athletic Fete

Rev. Richard Drake of the Alliance Union Avenue Methodist Church will be featured speaker at a banquet Tuesday evening at 6:30 in the Elks Home to honor all Junior High athletes.

The Junior High PTA and the Elks Lodge are sponsoring the affair. Other speakers will be Faculty Manager Fred Cope and Superintendent of Schools E. S. Kerr.

Drake is a former professional football player. He was with the New York Giants two seasons.

He was graduated from Westerville High School in Columbus in 1938.

Enrolling at Ohio Wesleyan, he studied for the ministry and, at the same time, became an all-Ohio football player. He held seven jobs to aid him through college, besides participating actively in church work.

After graduation Drake signed with the Giants, and also enrolled in Drew Theological Seminary to continue his ministerial work.

After two seasons with the Giants, he served as assistant coach at Madison, N.J., High School in 1945 and then as head mentor at Dover, N.J., all the while continuing his theological training.

After graduation from "Drew," Drake was ordained a minister and assigned to Whitehall Methodist Church at Bexley, near Columbus.

He assisted Bexley High coach Carlton Smith for three years. Drake has been in Alliance since 1949.

Red Sox Beat New York 3-1

BOSTON, May 30 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox broke up a pitching duel between Willard Nixon and New York's Jim McDonald with two runs in the seventh inning to day for a 3-1 victory before 27,407 fans in Fenway Park.

Nixon thus became the first pitcher to whip the defending world champions twice this season as he held New York to four hits, including Mickey Mantle's sixth inning homer.

The Boston righthander choked off a Yankee rally in the ninth by getting Andy Carey to ground to him with two men on.

McDonald, who held his former Red Sox teammates to one hit in a 5-0 victory here April 19, had a 1-1 tie going into the seventh thanks to Mantle's 415-ft. homer into the deep right centerfield bull pen.

Nixon led off the seventh by watching a called third strike, but Billy Goodman singled to right.

McDonald got Jim Piersall to fly out but then walked slugger Ted Williams for the third time.

Jackie Jensen then scored Goodman with a single and rookie Harry Agganis brought home Williams with a single to right center.

Fonty Flock Wins Race At Canfield

Fonty Flock of Decatur, Ga., getting in shape for today's 100-mile late-model classic, easily won Saturday night's 50-lap feature event at the Canfield Speedway.

Starting in the pole position, Flock was never headed, beating second place Mike Klapak to the wire by a good half-lap. Klapak, straining next to the last in the 24-team field, moved into second in the 42nd lap.

Today, Flock, Klapak and Youngstown's Jimmy Romine will lead a field of 55 drivers in the "Poor Man's Indianapolis" at the nearby speedway.

The fifth annual classic, this year featuring a purse of more than $6,000 to be divided among the top drivers, will begin at 2:30 with time trials slated for noon. Gates will open at 10 a.m. A crowd of 15,000 is expected.

Other top drivers will be Paul Parks, Dick Linder, Mike Little, Bill Rexford, Buckey Sager and Wes Crowley.

Barberton Wins Track Title

Alexander Scores In Jump; Davis Stars

Glenn "Jeep" Davis of Barberton came through with an unprecedented one-man sweep of the state track and field titles Saturday at Ohio State, winning three events, placing fourth in another and totaling 20 points to give his school the state championship.

From the local standpoint, the Salem Quakers were tied for 30th in the state with two points as high jumper Jack Alexander tied for third place with two other men.

It marked the second consecutive year that Alexander managed to score at Columbus, last year tying for fourth place and giving the locals one point, again good enough to land Salem in a tie for 30th place.

Saturday, by clearing the same height—6 feet even—he went a place and a point higher but Salem was still only 30th. The event was won by Wayne Stevens of Chillicothe with a leap of 6-2½, while Jack Nourse of Springfield was second at 6-2. Then came Alexander, Bob Furry of Columbus West and Bob Davis of Dayton Wright, all of whom did 6-feet. Alexander is only a sophomore.

SALEM'S OTHER top hopes for honors at Columbus found the state competition a bit too tough. Shot-putter Dan Kendziarski, although he got off the best heave of his career, 48' 3", missed fifth place by 2' 4". The event was won by John Herbert of East Palestine with a heave of 53' 11½". Kendziarski's effort was just two inches shy of the all-time Salem High record.

Also turning in the best time of his career, captain Jerry Martin still did not place in the mile. The winning time was 4:29.3, considerably better than Martin's effort.

All other Salem, Columbiana and Leetonia runners did not even come close to placing, although Leetonia's Dave Deffenbaugh did reach the semi-finals of the low hurdles Friday afternoon before falling by the wayside.

BUT THE BIG topic of conversation at the meet was Jeep Davis, 19, who only last week stole the show at Salem's NEO District meet at Reilly Stadium.

It was by far the most sterling performance any high school athlete ever registered at a state meet. He won the 220, low hurdles and broad jump, and placed fourth in the 100. In Friday's semi-finals, Davis also set a new state record of :19.1 in the low hurdles.

Ironically enough, Davis qualified in the 100 at :09.9 but merely placed fourth in the finals. The winner, Roger Williams of Toledo Libby, was credited the winner in the finals with a similar 9.9 effort.

In the finals, he did the 220 in 21.6, the low's in 19.5 and broad-jumped 23' ¼".

MANSFIELD was second with 14 points, Columbus South finished third with 13 points and Springfield and Dayton Dunbar tied for fourth at 12 points each. Massillon, the district winner here last week, was ninth with nine points.

In Class "B," Nevada was the champion with 18 points while Cuyahoga Heights was second with 16 points. Braceville with little Johnny Toles taking seconds in both the high jump and 440, was ninth with eight points.

Toles took three first places and one second in pacing Braceville to the District "B" crown here last week.

Other area performers who scored were Tom Smolanovich of Poland, a tie for first in the "A" pole vault, and Gene Stefani of Warren, a fifth in the discus.

In other championships decided this past weekend at Columbus, Mansfield won the "A" baseball title while Waverly is the "B" champ. Willoughby took the golf trophy while Middletown monopolized tennis, winning both singles and doubles titles.

33 Drivers Set For Race At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, May 30 (AP)—The fastest 500 mile Indianapolis Speedway race in history, and perhaps the most dangerous, looms tomorrow as 33 death-defying drivers put on autodom's 38th show of shows.

The event will not be televised but will be broadcast in 46 states.

Headed by pole car driver, record-qualifier Jack McGrath, these maniacal men-in-motion at 11 a.m. (EST) will hurl their tiny wheeled flyers past a sprawling throng of some 175,000 for 200 mad whirls around the speedway's brick and asphalt course.

Again, the remarkable weather luck of the big race has held. The prediction is for cloudy, warm weather, with showers in the late afternoon, well after the race is ended.

The huge crowd, from the qualifying efforts, expects a smashing of the 128,922 m.p.h. record speed for the grind. And, in the making, the record could produce a crumpling of machines or men, or both.

There are some hot drivers, like 1953 winner Bill Vukovich, Sam Hanks, 1950 winner Johnny Parsons, Jim Rathman and record-holding 1952 champion Troy Ruttman, bunched deep in the starting phalanx of cars.

Once the field roars off in 11 three-car rows, these men will be pushing down to the floorboards, trying to move up in the blistering 135 m.p.h. pace expected to mark the first 100 miles. That's when crashes could come.

Last driver to perish in the race was shorty Cantlon, killed in 1947. McGrath is favored to skim the top of the $250,000 jackpot, mainly on his record qualifying speed of 141.033 m.p.h.

The winner's share could be $90,000.

The next two fastest qualifiers, rounding out the first starting row with McGrath, are Jimmy Daywalt (139.789) and Jimmy Bryan (139.665).

Vukovich, who starts from the 195th position in the seventh row, is a hell-for-rubber driver, who had led the last two races 345 of the 400 laps.

If anybody moves up to take a crack at the leaders, it probably will be this 35-year-old Slovene, who rates with three-time winners Wilbur Shaw and Mauri Rose as the only men to earn more than $100,000 from the 500. Vukovich has accrued $110,000.

Merchants To Play East Palestine Today

Jim Barnes will be on the mound this afternoon at 2 at East Palestine when the Salem Merchants seek their sixth victory of the season against a lone defeat.

Currently in first place in the County League, the Merchants nipped East Palestine here Wednesday 3-2. Several of the Merchants participated in an all-star game against the Boardman Athletic Club at Palestine yesterday.

Bill Odorizzi has assumed temporary manager's reins from Dave Kachner who resigned recently. The Merchants are seeking a permanent manager.

Indians Beat Detroit 3-1

Philley Drives In 2 Runs With Flies

CLEVELAND, May 30 (AP)—Cleveland's first place Indians swept a three-game series from the Detroit Tigers today, 3-1, as Dave Philley drove in two of the Tribe runs with long flies. Mike Garcia scattered four hits in winning his fifth victory against four losses.

The victory gave Cleveland a 692 percentage in the American League pennant race. It was the Tribe's 14th straight hometown triumph.

Detroit's sole run came in the sixth inning when Frank Bolling led off with a double and scored from second when Al Rosen muffed Fred Hatfield's grounder.

Dick Marlowe, suffering his second defeat against three victories, was nicked for five hits before he was relieved in the eighth for a pinch hitter.

Garcia, batting in one run himself, appeared to be in trouble in the first inning, but soon recovered. The first man up, Frank Bolling, singled. Fred Hatfield followed with another single which sent Bolling to third.

But Garcia snatched up a grounder by Harvey Kuenn and threw out Bolling at the plate; then made Jim Delsing fly out. Walt Drope forced Kuenn to end the threat.

Bob Avila, the league's leading batter, got two doubles and raised his percentage to .387. He started the ball rolling for Cleveland by leading off with a double in the fourth inning and taking third on a passed ball. Then after Rosen drew a walk, Avila scored on Philley's fly.

The Tigers tied it up in the top of the sixth, but Cleveland moved out ahead again in the same inning. Al Smith led off for Cleveland with a single, advanced to third on a double by Avila, and after Rosen was walked, scored on a fly by Philley as he had in the fourth.

Cleveland added another in the seventh. Strickland doubled, went to third on Jim Hegan's sacrifice, and scored on a grounder by Garcia.

In addition to his two run-scoring flies, Philley hit a double in the second inning.

Lesick Wins Race At Sharon Speedway

Steve Lesick of Salem racked up his third victory of the season at the Sharon Speedway Saturday night, covering the distance in 8:22.3.

Twelve hundred fans viewed the race, in which Lesick outran 35 other drivers. In addition, he placed second in both the Australian Pursuit and the Helmet Dash events.

Right Choice Of Windows Tricky

Removable 'Treated' Windows Now Offered

Deciding on windows can be one of the trickiest problems encountered when planning to remodel or build a house. There are more styles and types of windows on the market today than you can shake a stick at. Some open, some don't—even when they are supposed to. The movable kinds range from finely precision devices to near gadgets, as you probably have observed.

Well, so much has been said recently about various metal windows and so many people prefer wood sash windows that a look at real modern millwork reveals some big surprises for most of us.

For instance, have you noticed that the old-fashioned sash weight is gone? Have you seen the wood framed, wood sash windows that you can wash in the middle of the living room floor? And have you heard of "treated" windows?

These are all on hand at lumber yards handling fine millwork.

THE SASH WEIGHT may be mourned by writers of murder mysteries, but not by householders who have tried to cope with a broken sash cord. These clumsy devices have been replaced by spring balances, carefully matched to the weight of the window for easy operation.

The spring balances don't take up as much space as the sash weight arrangement, so window frames are much narrower than they used to be. Narrow frames prove to be better looking and result in more wall area, more glass area in a window, or both.

WASHING the outside of a window in the middle of the living room floor is much less of a trick nowadays than risking your neck by sitting out on the sill. New double-hung wood sash windows are made to be taken out at will. A flick of the finger a slight push and a gentle lift does it. Various built-in devices make it possible.

Among other improvements are better methods of weatherstripping. A great many modern wood sash windows are manufactured as units. The sash and frame are matched to each other and used as one assembly. This permits installing weatherstripping at the factory by carefully engineered methods. Complete units are easier and less expensive to install.

A "TREATED" WINDOW is one that has been immersed in water-repellent preservative. This protects the wood from moisture and holds shrinking, swelling, warping and rotting to a negligible minimum. The treatment does not discolor the wood and it serves as an excellent base for paint.

Windows and doors, of course, are the principal moving parts of a house. So experience has been a great teacher for the millwork manufacturers. About half a century ago, almost any handy soft wood was used for millwork. But when abrasive wear caused some woods to splinter and disintegrate in other ways, research began.

The result has been that for more than 40 years ponderosa pine has taken the lead among materials used for quality windows and doors. This wood now produced principally in about nine Western states, won the race in window frame making because its soft texture made smooth and accurate machining practicable.

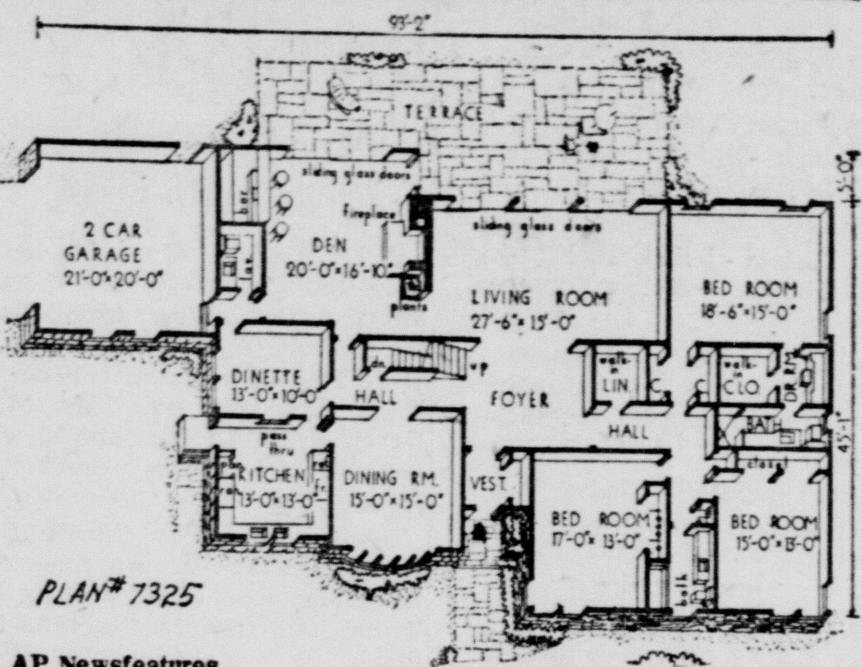

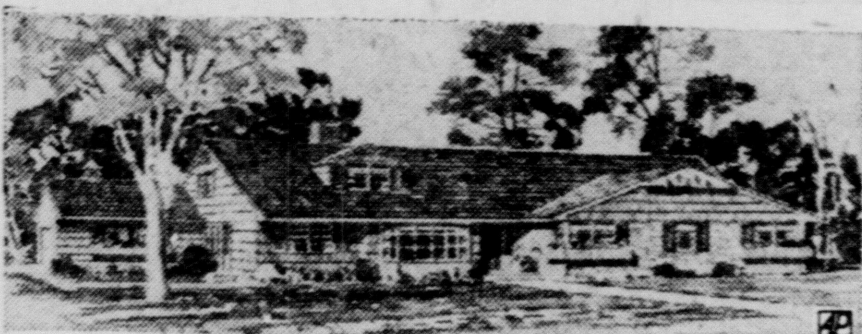

ONE REASON wood framed windows hold their popularity is because of the insulating capacity of wood. On cold winter days, metal window frames drip with condensation. Double glazing may insulate the panes enough to keep the glass clear, but metal frames still "sweat."

This is more or less inevitable. When you want heat conduction, such as for pots and pans on the stove, you use metal, not wood. The refrigerating data book of the American Society of Refrigerating Engineers shows that in a given length of time, aluminum of a given thickness and area will transmit from 1360 to 1780 times as much heat as a piece of pine of the same dimensions.

Of course, everything seems to have its advantages and disadvantages. There is no denying that metal window frames are thin and narrow. But apparently you can't write pine millwork out of the picture.

PRE-STIRRED PAINT
CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A new chemical spares the household handyman from the tiresome job of stirring paint every time he wants to do a little amateur decorating. It is a white powder, supposed to increase the viscosity of paint to prevent the color pigments from settling in the bottom of a can, no matter how long or at what temperature the can is stored.

MANY LARGE-LOSS FIRES
Large-loss fires are defined by the National Fire Protection Association as fires that cause damage in excess of $250,000. The record year for large-loss fires was in 1951, when there were 302, closely followed by 275 in 1952 with an aggregate loss of $182,243,000.

Planting Of Tomatoes Calls For Warm Soil

By HENRY FREE

Written for NEA Service

Delay tomato planting until the soil is warm and you'll get a better crop, according to Eugene Wittmeyer, extension horticulturist, Ohio State University. Tomatoes are a warm-season vegetable, are easily injured by frost, and their growth retarded by cold weather.

Tomato plants — and do buy thrifty, stocky plants six to nine inches in height rather than spindly plants a foot or more tall — do best in a well-drained loamy soil and in a sunny location. If the soil is heavy clay, be sure to work in some humus and gravel if available.

Fertilizer, one strong in phosphorus, should be worked in while plowing or spading. A 4-12-4, 5-10-5 or similar analysis is best, since fertilizers strong in nitrogen may cause blossom-end rot on the tomatoes.

If the plants are to be staked, set them 2½ feet apart in rows 3 feet apart. If you propose to permit them to sprawl, then set the plants 4 feet apart each way.

Staking is recommended for the small garden. The stakes should be set in place prior to planting and the plant set on the leeward side of the stakes so that in case of a heavy wind the weight of the plant falls against the stake and not on the supporting twine.

The plants are tied to the stake with a strong but soft twine called "grape twine," or with strips of cloth about an inch wide and eight inches long. Stakes should be sturdy and rough — an inch or more in diameter and five to six feet above ground.

Quizzing The Gardener

Q — What is the difference between the Colorado and Koster blue spruces?

A — Colorado spruce is a variable species with bluish-green to silvery-white foliage. Koster spruce is the bluest, most compact and rigid growing.

Q — Is it correct that young fruit trees have to be sprayed before they will bear fruit?

A — Spraying does not insure bearing. Its purpose is to insure fruit free of insect-and-disease injury. Follow the spray program recommended by your local county agricultural agent.

Q — What plant can you suggest for a shady location where "shade flowering" annuals failed to supply color?

A — Try the new "Rainbow" strain of coleus, an annual grown from seed which produces foliage with a wide variety of lively, bright shades of yellow, pinks and rich reds.

Q — Our American holly has never produced the much-wanted berries. What can be done to remedy this?

A — A lone holly plant will seldom bear fruit. A male plant is needed nearby to pollinate the berry-bearing female.

Q — Our indoor begonias, grown in the same soil for the past three years, show signs of deterioration. What soil mixture is recommended for repotting?

A — A very porous soil — make a mixture of two parts peat moss, one part dried, prepared cow manure; one part good loam soil, with a sprinkling of fertilizer strong in phosphorus — one with an analysis of 4-12-4, 5-10-5 or equal.

Q — After watering our African violets we observe tiny white insects on the soil about each plant. What are they, and how do we get rid of them?

A — The insects, called "spring-tails," are harmless. Dust or spray the plant and soil with chlordane, since their presence annoys you.

Q — As the lovely blue monkshood is an aconite, a poisonous root, would it be dangerous to divide the plants?

A — There is no danger, unless one eats the roots.

New Method of Using Asphalt Shingles Means Flatter Roof

Roofs are going to become flatter. This is not a style note from the Paris of the home builders. It is just an obvious conclusion, warranted by the development of a new method for using asphalt shingles.

Changes in house design have been brought about before by new building materials and new ideas for using them. You can cite the window wall, made practicable in northern climates by vacuum-sealed double glass. And there is the trend to wide roof overhangs, which at least was aided and abetted by the need for shade to increase the efficiency of summer cooling systems.

The reason you can now virtually bet on gables becoming squat-er — maybe disappearing in an almost flat shed slope — is that your money will be saved if you're paying for the building job.

ARCHITECTS have been flirting for years with what they call "flat tops." The structural lumber and roofing material required to build a pitched and gabled roof have been obvious extravaganzas. So in recent years, you have seen the slopes of roofs on new houses becoming steadily lower.

But when roof slopes got down to a drop of less than four inches per horizontal foot, economy seemed to end. Economical shingles could no longer be used, because of the problem of water backing up under them on pitches of less than four inches. You could build a flat roof, or one with a pitch of only two inches or so, but you had to use built-up roofing or other systems.

Well, a lot of people didn't care much for the looks of black roll roofing on a house — especially when pitched roofs blossomed out in blue, red, green, pink and other hues. So the daring young archilects were more or less saddled with gabled roofs.

NOW IT TURNS OUT that you can build a rain-tight, wind-tight roof with a pitch as low as two inches per foot, and use popular asphalt shingles if you do it in the right way. First you attach a metal drip edge along the eaves and along the rakes of your roof. Then you cover the roof deck with two layers of No. 15 asphalt saturated felt.

You start this underlayment with a 19-inch starter course laid along the eaves to overlie the metal drip edge. The starter course is then covered with quick-setting asphalt cement and a full 36-inch width of the felt is then laid to overlap the starter course completely.

From then on, each 36-inch width of felt overlaps the previous strip by 19 inches and is cemented to the previous strip. All of this material is further secured to the roof deck by 3/4-inch roofing nails — with only enough nails used to hold the material in place until the shingles are applied.

Then another starting strip is applied along the eaves. This can be a row of asphalt shingles reversed, or a strip of 90-pound mineral surfaced roofing. The first course of shingles will completely cover this strip.

An exposure of 5 inches is allowed for each course of shingles. Four nails are used for each shingle strip and all tabs are cemented down firmly without squeezing the cement out over the exposed surfaces. Shingles along the rakes of the roof are cemented to the metal drip edge and to each other.

THIS METHOD was developed in 18 months of testing and research by the Asphalt Roofing Industry Bureau. A specially designed "storm machine" was used in the tests. Panels of roofing remained completely watertight at the end of six hours of simulated, continuous 60-mile-per-hour wind and a 2-inch-per-hour rainfall.

For parts of the country where the January daily average temperature is 25 degrees or less, additional felt is specified for 24 inches back from the inside wall line of the building.

FIGURING IT OUT

The conflict between the budget and the actual cost of a house can be reconciled by listing both family prejudices and preferences and essential requirements. So of both will win out and the proposed budget will benefit.

THIS MODERN kitchen takes advantage of every opportunity for storage space, making kitchen work as convenient as possible. Ponderosa pine cabinets in stock sizes fit all available wall area. Upper cabinets include units that fit above the range and the refrigerator. Cabinets are gray with rose-surfaced counters to match the floor.

Sump Pump Suggested As Wet Cellar Remedy

A sump pump or cellar drainer will be found invaluable to guard against flooded basements in those districts where sewers are inadequate to carry away storm water, according to the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

Such a pump is installed in a pit or sump at some convenient point in the basement. When water in the sump reaches a predetermined level, a float valve starts the pump automatically. Such pumps are made in various sizes to meet varying requirements.

Protection against basement flooding is particularly important today because of the widespread use of motors to activate oil burners, stokers and automatic laundry machines. These motors can be severely damaged when water gets into their mechanism.

SPARKLING METAL

When you are spring cleaning, don't forget the metalwork. Spruced-up that makes all the difference in achieving that sparkling, clean look. Wash with soap and dry.

Varnish Should Precede Stain In Finishing Wood

Before applying varnish stain to new wood, it is often a good idea to apply a coat of clear varnish. The reason: varnish stain sometimes turns out darker than you expected when you apply it directly to new wood.

If the color is exactly to your liking after applying the varnish and the varnish stain, finish with a coat of clear varnish. If the wood is too light after one coat of stain, make the third coat of varnish stain also.

Paint on Outside Metal Prevents Ugly Staining

When used on the outside of a house or building, copper and iron should be coated to prevent their staining adjoining surfaces. If you wish to stain the natural color of copper, use spar varnish.

Plain iron surfaces can be covered with aluminum paint, trimmed-trellis paint or house paint after a metal primer has been applied.

Building Total For 4 Months Tops '53 Mark

NEW YORK — Contract awards for future construction in the 37 eastern states, as reported by F. W. Dodge Corp., construction news and marketing specialists, remained at "extremely high" levels in April.

The total was $1,691,868,000, about 11 per cent above last March. The figure was only some $50,000,000 behind the all-time April record set in 1953, which included almost $150,000,000 for Atomic Energy Commission projects.

The Dodge total for the first four months set a new high for the first four months in any year of Dodge's 63-year history. It was 8 per cent ahead of the first four months of 1953 which set the previous high.

Thomas S. Holden, vice chairman of Dodge, commented: "The extremely high April totals indicate a continuation of the unprecedented boom in construction activity reported thus far in 1954."

Four month figures: nonresidential $2,079,276,000, up 9 per cent over first four months of 1953; residential $2,435,125,000, up 13 per cent; public works and utilities, $1,078,231,000, down 4 per cent.

FURNITURE PAINTING TIP

When painting furniture outdoors, select a place to do the work that is protected from the weather and free from dust. Paint the lower sections of chairs and tables first. Turn them upside down so you can work at a convenient level. Then turn them right side up and finish the job. This will save you from having to become an acrobat for the day.

EXTRAS VALUABLE

Little extras in a kitchen win home buyers, realtors have learned. Among the inexpensive bonuses type items is a tile snack bar, either hinged to the wall, built-in permanently as a narrow table along the wall or as an island, or put on wheels to double as a work surface.

7 Million Garbage Units Foreseen As Sales Goal

Over a million and a quarter home garbage disposal units are now in use and those in the plumbing trade estimate that almost seven million will be installed in American homes by 1960.

To achieve this goal, the industry will have to produce twice as many units per year for the next seven years. Last year 350,000 units were turned out while production will have to hit 749,000 units to achieve the 1960 goal.

Sales of waste disposal units in the last three years amounted to more than all previous sales since 1935.

D. 1, Hanover, Ohio.

Proposals to be received in the office of the Board of Education, United Local School District, Elementary Building, R. D. 1, Hanover, Ohio, until 12:00 Noon Eastern Daylight Savings Time on June 21. Bids will be opened and publicly read immediately thereafter on the same day.

Plans and specifications may be obtained from the office of Kling & Frost, Architects, 661 Wick Avenue, Youngs, Ohio, upon a deposit of Twenty-Five Dollars ($25.00) in currency or certified check, for which a receipt will be given. Each bidder will be allowed one copy of plans and specifications, extra copies may be obtained at a cost of Fifteen Dollars ($15.00) per set.

All plans and specifications must be returned to the office of the Architects in good condition without any marks or notations thereon, on or before the date of closing of bids. This complied with, the bidder will receive his deposit, otherwise he will forfeit his deposit.

Each bidder will be required to submit with his bid a certified check, cashier's check or bid bond in the amount of ten per cent (10%) of the total bid of the items bid upon. The character and amount of security required to be furnished for and in connection with the performance of the contract, is stated in the proposed contract documents.

The right is reserved by the Board of Education to reject any or all bids and to waive informalities. No bid may be withdrawn for at least thirty (30) days after the opening thereof. BOARD OF EDUCATION, United Local School District, Hanover, Ohio. H. C. DORR, Clerk. Salem News, May 24, 31, June 7, 14, 1954.

Questions, Answers

Q — Are there such things as "snow fleas"?
A — Yes, these tiny insects appear in late winter and are often observed in snow, or in puddles of water from melted snow. Though little is known about their life cycle, they are believed to develop in soils containing large amounts of humus, on which the insects feed.

Roy Cohn Is Only Democrat To Command McCarthy's Ear

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)—Roy Cohn has accomplished much in his 27 years. Not the least of which is to give national stature to the whisper.

To millions of watchers of the Army-McCarthy hearing's first 20 days, Cohn was a pair of lips against McCarthy's ear. During one five-hour stretch, he whispered on the average of once every seven minutes.

The high-domed, slick-haired young man is the only registered Democrat in Washington to command McCarthy's ear with such regularity. As chief counsel of the Senate's Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations, and as a defendant to charges he threatened to wreck the Army, he had much to discuss with his boss—and he did.

The hassle has dragged in eight senators, including McCarthy, other members of the committee staff, Secretary of the Army Stevens, an assortment of generals and lesser Army rank, Asst. Secretary of Defense H. Struve Hensel, various civilians attached to the military, the office of the U.S. attorney-general and the Federal Bureau of Investigation. It has also attracted the unfavorable attention of the President.

That's quite a hornet's nest for a 27-year-old to stir up.

Cohn was born Feb. 20, 1927, only child of Albert Cohn, former Bronx politician and now a New York Appellate Court judge in Manhattan. His parents are described by a friend as the doting type.

"Roy as a boy was the center of the family. He still is. It is doubtful that Roy ever received a spanking."

In any case, Cohn became—literally—a clean young American. He likes to bathe twice a day. He is a confirmed comb carrier, and insists on draping a freshly pressed suit on his 5 foot 8, 160-pound frame each day.

He is well known on the New York night club circuit, and his appearances occasionally are noted by the gossip columnists. Often he turns up with one of three very pretty girls whom he dates with fair regularity. He is known as a light drinker, usually an aperitif on the rocks.

One close friend insists Cohn is not by nature a nightclubber.

"He doesn't go to the clubs for relaxation," this friend says, "but to meet people he has to see. If you want to see people, you go where they are."

A frequent companion has been G. David Schine, his close friend and committee aide. The Army says it was Cohn's insistence on preferential treatment for Schine that sparked the current controversy.

Cohn has rarely been far from controversy since his early days as a lawyer.

His handling of a federal grand jury's investigation of subversives among Americans at the United Nations, brought on a row which was investigated by a House subcommittee.

A whirlwind 18-day trip through Europe by Cohn and Schine produced congressional debate and a rash of unfavorable comment in the foreign press.

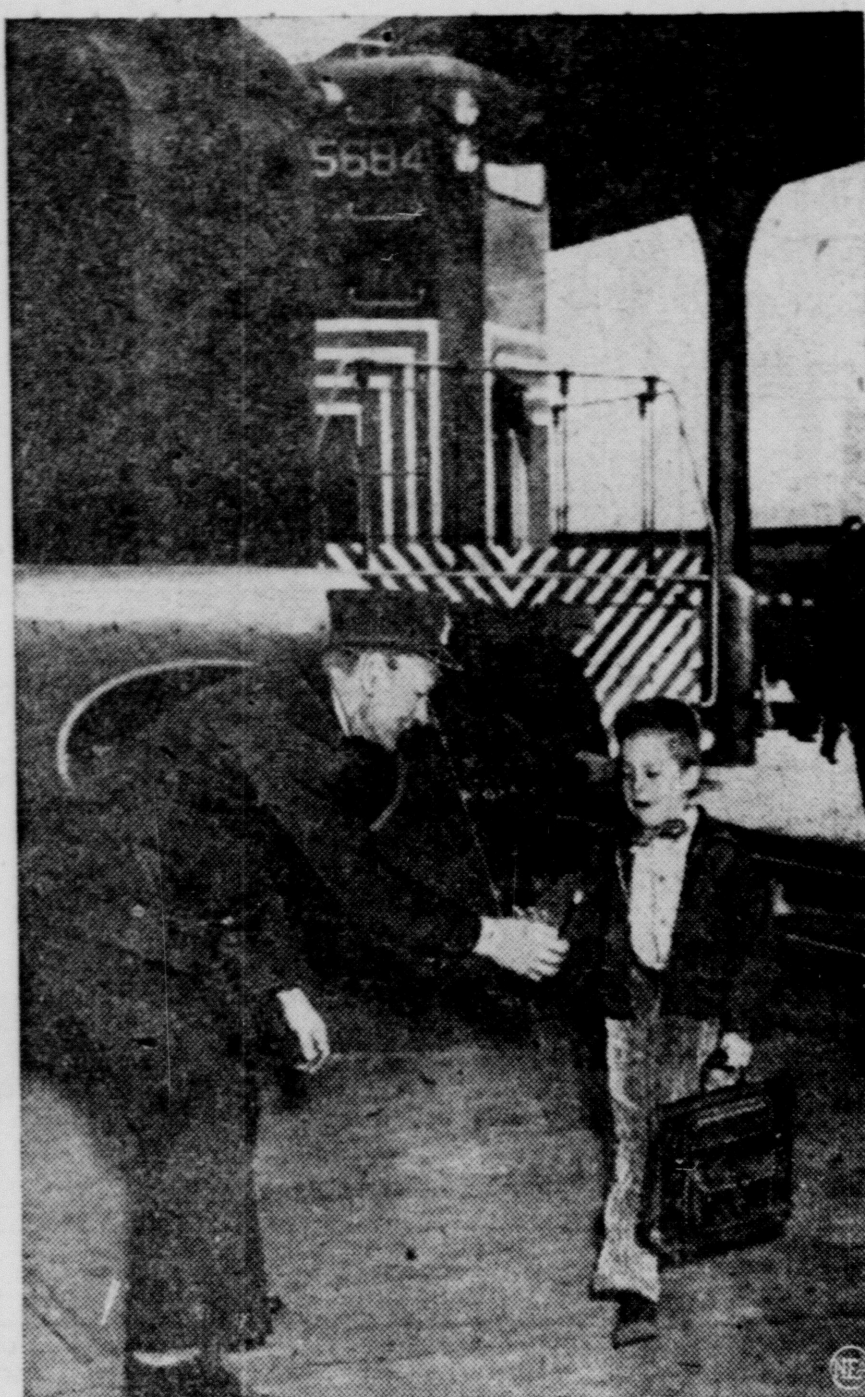

There has been a running debate over the manner in which McCarthy's subcommittee has treated witnesses, and Cohn has done a lot of the questioning.

A New York lawyer with whom the hazel-eyed Cohn worked in the U.S. attorney's office in New York, even before his admission to the bar, says:

"He was put to work in the appeals division as a clerk. He worked on 15 or 16 appeals. By the time he became a lawyer, all those cases had produced favorable comment from the courts."

"There is no doubt the boy is a legal genius. Hours mean nothing to him. He did have an intolerance of almost everyone, however, that amounted to smugness. He was hard on inferiors."

Cohn moved up to assistant U.S. attorney, then to confidential as-

Question Airman In Death Of Wave

LEONARDTOWN, Md. May 30 (AP)—A Navy airman who said he escorted a 26-year-old Navy wave to several night spots the night before she was slain was being questioned here today for further questioning in her death.

Carl Willis Strickland, 21, waived extradition after his arrest at his home in Rocky Mount, N. C., yesterday. He said he left the girl alive with an unnamed hitchhiker, picked up, he said, at her request. The body of the Wave, Irene Marion Conole, was found early Saturday on the beach at Point Lookout, 15 miles from the Patuxent Naval Air Station where both Strickland and Miss Conole were stationed.

"He really threw his weight around 'hen,'" the lawyer recalls. "The district attorney had a long black car with red lights and a siren. Cohn couldn't understand why he couldn't have one, too."

He was No. 3 man on the prosecuting staff in the trials of Ethel and Julius Rosenberg, executed atomic spies. He also worked on the Harry Gold spy case and on the first perjury trial of William Remington, convicted of lying when he said he never belonged to the Communist party and now in prison. He handled the questioning of Louis Budenz, a former Communist, in the trial of the so-called "second string" Communists. Another of his jobs was handling the U.N. grand jury inquiry.

Chancellor Adenauer Awarded Peace Prize

BON, Germany, May 30 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer was awarded the world peace prize of the "Blue Army of Our Lady of Fatima" today.

The Rev. Harold Colgan of Plainfield, N.J., presented the prize in a brief ceremony at the federal chancellery. It was given Adenauer "for extraordinary service to the victory over communism and to world peace."

The "Blue Army" is a Roman Catholic organization pledged to fight communism with spiritual methods.

Egyptians Plunder Store In Port Said

CAIRO, Egypt, May 30 (AP)—The British embassy reported 20 armed Egyptians "plundered and set ablaze" a British government store in Port Said last night, causing damage estimated at more than a million dollars.

The gang over-powered night guards, stole some equipment and set fire to the rest, a British spokesman said. There were no casualties.

The store housed supplies for troops passing through the Suez Canal.

Atomic Energy Group Row To Be Aired

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)—A reported backstage row within the Atomic Energy Commission over administrative policies of Chairman Lewis L. Strauss probably will be aired in Congress this week.

Strauss and other commissioners begin testifying Wednesday at open hearings before the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, now considering a broad new blueprint for controlling atomic power.

Rep. Holifield (D-Calif.), a committee member, said today he intends asking each of the five commissioners about what he termed continuing reports of a "lack of harmony" among them.

"I understand this lack of harmony is more than a matter of personalities," Holifield said in an interview.

"I am afraid it is based on a lack of access to information, pertinent to the success of our atomic objectives, on the part of some of the commissioners."

Other committee members also have spoken guardedly of disagreements within the commission. Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-N.Y.) chairman, says the controversy is a "tempest in a teapot" and attributes it to a clash of personalities.

Other reports say the central issue is conflict over efforts by Strauss and some of his supporters to increase the prestige of the chairman, instead of adhering to a five-man commission of relatively equal rank. Strauss now is the commission's main contact with the White House, as the President's personal adviser on atomic energy.

MAN, WIFE DIE IN FIRE

CLEVELAND, May 30 (AP)—A man and his wife were killed by flames early today after they tried to put out a fire in their three-room apartment over a garage.

The victims were Alfred Cain, 54, an elevator operator; and his wife, Cecile, 52, a cook for a Cleveland Heights family behind whose home the garage was located.

KILLED IN CRASH

LIMA, Ohio, May 30 (AP)—Sherman W. Thompson, 87, of Lima Rt. 4, was killed today when his car and a milk truck collided five miles southwest of Lima.

Soviet Air Force Shows New Jets

MOSCOW, May 30 (AP)—The Soviet air force flashed 167 jets low over Red Square today during celebrations marking the 300th anniversary of the union of Russia and the Ukraine. The spectacular four-jet intercontinental bomber brought out for the first time on May Day was not shown today. Today's flight consisted of 82 IL28s of conventional jet design and 85 swept-wing MIGs. They flew over the square while troops of the Moscow garrison paraded before Premier Georgi Malenkov and other leaders atop the Lenin-Stalin tomb.
